BACKING BUT NOT A BIT BACKWARD

Because she wished to put her best side forward, the U.S. Navy's helicopter carrier USS Iwo Jima swung around ponderously in Esquimalt Harbor this morning, to dock at HMCS Naden with stern to beach. Her "best side" is starboard, where the ceremonial quarterdeck and proverbial welcome mat are located. Provincial and civic dignitaries will cross the quarterdeck today; everybody is welcome between 1 and 5 p.m. Sunday. Entrance is via main gate, HMCS Naden. (See story, page 15.)

K Threatens New Tests If U.S. Begins Again

FRANCE SETS ATOMIC BLAST

PARIS (UPI) — France may set off its fifth atomic test blast in the Sahara this weekend, the newspaper Paris Presse said today.

The newspaper said the test would be an underground shot, probably in the Hoggar Mountains. The fourth French test in April had been described by a French spokesman as the last of an above-ground series.

Test Story Aimed Behind Iron Curtain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Voice of America will use as many as 52 radio transmitters Sunday in a saturation campaign designed to beam a report on Soviet nuclear testing behind the Iron Curtain.

Programs keyed to the theme, "Have you been told?" will be broadcast in Latvian, Estonian, Lithuanian, Armenian, Georgian and Ukrainian as well as Russian and English.

The full story of efforts to reach a test ban agreement and the subsequent Russian nuclear tests will be covered.

(Times News Services)
MOSCOW — An Italian cabinet minister said today Premier Khrushchev told him the Soviet Union is ready to set off a new series of nuclear blasts if the United States resumes atmospheric testing.

Giuseppe Codacci Pisanelli, minister without portfolio and president of the Interparliamentary Union, talked to reporters before leaving for Rome en route to Washington to see President Kennedy. He saw Khrushchev in the Kremlin Friday.

Reuters news agency said usually reliable sources denied reports that Khrushchev had promised concessions on Berlin.

They called completely inaccurate reports that Khrushchev had said: "We must have negotiations and negotiations mean not only to receive concessions but to make concessions." In fact, they said, Codacci Pisanelli used the phrase to Khrushchev. The Soviet premier merely agreed to this as a principle of negotiations generally, the sources declared.

This was not regarded by Codacci Pisanelli or any diplomatic sources here as any indication that Khrushchev was committing himself to making specific concessions on Berlin.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Russia exploded another nuclear device in the atmosphere today the Atomic Energy Commission announced.

SOFT-SHOE SHUFFLE FOR NURSERY GUARDS

LONDON (AP) — Sentries outside Clarence House did not stamp their nailed boots when turning at the end of their beats today.

They adopted a new soft-shoe routine without lifting their feet high off the ground.

A War Office spokesman said that, although no official order had been issued, it was quite possible that someone from Princess Margaret's household had said "a quiet word to the guard commander about keeping his chaps quiet."

HAPPY BRITONS ENGROSSED IN GUESSING GAME

What Will They Name Him — Tony Jr., Albert, Ludwig?

By MARGARET SAVILLE

LONDON (UPI) — Britons indulged in a national guessing game today trying to pick a given name for the newest heir to the throne, tiny Viscount Linley of Nymans.

As the apple of the nation's eye slept in his blue-trimmed crib sheltered for a time against a world of clamor and adulation, Britons "wet the baby's head" — traditional term for the toast drunk to the newborn child.

Clarence House, where the baby was born, was banked with flowers. In the room of the baby's mother, Princess Margaret, were three bouquets of roses from his father, Lord Snowdon, the former Antony Armstrong-Jones.

Doctors today pronounced mother and child in excellent condition.

Margaret is reported eager to be back on her feet and in her usual form in time for London's pre-Christmas "little season," always one of the gayest and most informal social times of the year in London.

The baby inherited one of his father's titles at birth but he also will get a given name or names.

The Daily Sketch reached far back into the Armstrong-Jones family tree and came up with the name of Ludwig.

The Daily Herald added up the favorite royal names of Queen Victoria's sons and grandsons and predicted the boy would be named Albert. Tourists interviewed outside Clarence House favored George, after Margaret's late father, King George VI. Others thought it might be Antony. Tony himself led the toasts Friday by gathering three of the four doctors who attended the birth and drinking a glass of champagne with them. Crowds of sightseers trickled past Clarence House far into the night, peering at the light from Princess Margaret's bedroom.

For a time the little Jones boy will enjoy privacy but eventually the public spotlight will bathe him as it has the three children of Queen Elizabeth.

One newspaper, the Daily Mirror, consulted an astrologer who decided that the new heir to the throne — he stands fifth in line — "is born to be a leader with character not easily overawed. At school he will be no shining light. In manhood he will be tall, slim with penetrating eyes."

The Daily Express relied on an old saw and said that "Friday's child will be loving and giving."

Them Blue Angel fliers were quite a sight — I imagine.
There's a lot o' N-rumah's citizens who'd like t' sing He Ain't Ghana Reign No More.
It's gittin' so "lovely fall day" means somethin' radio-active.

Capital of Ghana Rocked by Bombs

KATANGA

Mobutu Suffers Setback

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — A Congolese government spokesman said today Gen. Joseph Mobutu's troops suffered a heavy defeat at the Katanga strongpoint of Kaniama Friday and his invasion column is withdrawing toward the Kasai frontier.

Premier Cyrille Adoula's press secretary said Mobutu's advancing troops suffered "heavy casualties" in the action and would await reinforcements from the central government province of Kasai. The spokesman said the important Katanga town had been heavily reinforced by the army of President Moïse Tshombe, including "many Europeans."

Kaniama, about 40 miles inside Katanga, is a principal base for the small bombing planes of the Katanga air force which were reported to have been attacking United Nations and Congolese army positions in Kasai.

No other details of the fighting were available here. Mobutu announced Thursday that his troops had advanced triumphantly up to 35 miles into Katanga.

On page 2 today, a new feature column makes its debut.

Entitled "Bound-a-bout," it will appear three times weekly and will include a pot-pourri of items which do not ordinarily make the news columns.

NOT CLEARED FOR MANOEUVRES

No 'Hawks' Those 'Angels'

The U.S. Navy's "Blue Angels" made an all-too-brief sortie over Victoria this morning.

Expected to perform two or three evolutions as part of a "hands across the border" gesture, they made a high-speed pass over the city, then vanished into the east.

Hundreds of cars crowded Beacon Hill Park waterfront, where sightseers were hoping for an exhibition similar to those put on by the RCAF Golden Hawks.

A telephone call to Whidbey Island, where the Angels are based for a giant U.S. Navy air show today and Sunday, revealed little but that the Angels cleared from the big air station 33 miles east of here, had been over the city at 11:29 a.m., and had since returned.

'SUCH A FIZZLE'

An information officer apologized for the exhibition being "such a fizzle."

"An explanation may be that they only had time for what they did," he said. "They had firm commitments here, and it may be that they didn't have the time or the fuel to hunt around for the vantage point where they were expected to perform."

STARS OF TV

The Blue Angels fly the supersonic Grumman F11F-1 Tiger, and are well known here through their television appearances. Six aircraft take part in the manoeuvres.

Original plans called for them to perform over Victoria Friday afternoon at 2:30, but the flight was called off because of bad weather at Whidbey Island.

One of the Angels, Lt. Hank Givenski, said the group did "all we were authorized to do over populated areas."

"We put on a show of red and blue water from our wing tanks and smoke from our exhausts in a pass over the city," he said. "We weren't cleared for manoeuvres, and also had to visit Seattle on the same trip."

He said there were six aircraft in the double-V formation which flew over the city.

Queen's Visit Set Next Week

ACCRA (AP) — Bombs were exploded in Accra today — one damaging a statue of Ghanaian President Kwame Nkrumah — and police blamed "terrorists."

It was the first reported violent display against the Nkrumah regime. There were no reports of casualties.

One bomb damaged the big bronze statue of the president that stands in front of Parliament.

A second bomb exploded almost simultaneously, damaging a war memorial in nearby Black Star Square, where the Queen is to review a parade during her visit next week.

First indications were that the bombs were planted by political rivals of Nkrumah, who rules this prosperous Gold Coast African republic with a dictatorial hand.

OPPONENTS JAILED

Nkrumah has clamped 400 political opponents in jail and only this week his rubber-stamp parliament approved legislation creating special court with power to order death sentences for political offences.

Unconfirmed reports said two bombs also were planted in Christianborg Castle where the Queen will stay during her 11-day visit. Police said they knew nothing about this.

Trade Pact With Russia

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia and Ghana began talks Friday on the conclusion of a long-term trade agreement and on the expansion of economic and technical co-operation, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

N.Y. City Operates Struck Milk Plant

NEW YORK (AP) — The city took over operation of a struck milk plant today to supply hospitals, schools, and other institutions during a Teamsters union strike that has paralyzed the normal flow of milk into New York City and Long Island.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

A bitter little joke current in the United States has been brought back home by a junketeering Victorian. It's called "The Four Presidents".

Hoover, so the story goes, proved that a man could be president forever. Truman proved that anybody can be president. Eisenhower proved that the country could get along without one. And Kennedy has proven that it's darned dangerous to have one.

Gruber

At a recent reception for Princess Alexandra, Lieutenant-Governor Reakes was circulating with the guest of honor's aide, Lady Moira Hamilton.

Running across the conductor of Victoria's electrified symphony he said: "Lady Moira, may I present Mr. Gruber? He has a little orchestra here."

Gruber's wife June, though, "thinks big." Friday she went Princess Margaret, one better, presented Hans with twins. (Look, Maw, some Hans!)

Here, incidentally, is the classified advertisement which the maestro telephoned to The Times today — and which was refused by the ad. dept. because it did not conform to accepted birth-notice style:

GRUBER—Born to June Gruber, Nov. 3, TWIN sisters for Male and Female. Thanks to Dr. C. Morris and associates at the Jubilee. Please approach during business hours.

This was old home week down at Pullman, Wash.

Victoria farrier (that's horse-shoe) Roy Jewell, who also trains race horses, raises thoroughbreds, breaks brones, in fact can do anything with the noble beasts, is just back from the state agricultural and veterinary college there.

He brought home Claydon Su, a young race filly from Art Knowles and Jack McSwen's Claydon Stock Farm, he had taken down earlier for treatment of some tendon trouble.

His "swamp" was A. (Sonny) Brown, West Saanich dairyman, an ex-breeder and racing enthusiast.

In Pullman they got together with former Victorian Dr. Gordon Keown, whose father was a highly respected vet here in the old days. (Remember his Pandora Avenue animal hospital?) Gordon is chief of staff at the college's animal clinic, and it's a case of like father like son. They bring him animals from all over the country because of the reputation he has built.

While horsing around about, former Victorian Verle Morrell (nee Leith), now living in Arizona, has just bought a B.C. race horse, Right on Time, as a riding horse. Victoria Riding Academy's Don Carley has shipped the three-year-old to her.

The David Cowlishaw who has attracted reams of publicity in Maclean's magazine and the Toronto Star recently with his "Operation Underdog" is the ex-Times reporter who set Victorians on their collective ear about three years ago with his series of articles: "What I Think of Victoria."

Cowlishaw

Cowlishaw's new idea is to work for people who feel they've had a raw deal. In order to bring his project to the notice of Pierre Berton, he slept in a car outside Berton's house all one night and nailed him in the morning. Assessing the man and his project, Berton shrewdly concluded:

"Men like Cowlishaw seem too good to be true. There's a catch in it somewhere, people say. And there is a catch: The catch is Cowlishaw himself who, for the task he has set — is frighteningly young and inexperienced. He is also rash, impulsive, naive and, I suspect, not very businesslike. Yet it is these very qualities that have caused him to plunge in where others have not thought to tread. Organizations like Underdog cannot exist without men of Cowlishaw's peculiar stamp."

At the end of a particularly robust selection presented by the Greater Victoria Schools Orchestra at Victoria Musical Art Society concert, Wednesday evening, the young concert-mistress, Veronica Milton, signalled quietly but frantically.

A quick nod from the conductor, Mrs. Dorothy Evans, and the lass dashed off stage.

There were knowing smiles and nods in the audience; grins from the boys and girls in the orchestra.

A long pause. Mrs. Evans looked toward the wings; then turned and said: "I always tell these boys and girls to put their hearts and souls into their music. Our concert-mistress put so much soul into the last number she broke a string in her violin."

As the laughter subsided, Veronica dashed on stage again, flushed and breathless, but with four strings to her fiddle.

In a letter to the Times, former staff cartoonist Sid Barron says that he is finding Toronto "petty, sprawling and gritty, but we hope to ignore it over the winter."

He concludes his letter:

"P.S.: Don't take any of that cheap, imported faintout."

Goal of Freer Trade Agreed by U.S., Japan

HAKONE, Japan (AP) — The United States and Japan today agreed to work toward freer trade between the two countries to co-operate in helping under-developed nations.

State Secretary Dean Rusk said "some very gratifying results" emerged from the economic talks held at cabinet level.

A 20-point joint communique at the close of the three-day conference spelled out the aims shared by both countries.

It stressed the vital importance of trade between the two nations and specifically declared that the United States will support Japanese efforts to eliminate discrimination against Japan in trade agreements involving other nations.

Japan and the United States also will exchange information on labor standards and policies, it said, "in order to avoid misconceptions affecting their trading relationships."

Jury Split Again.

OTTAWA (CP) — For the second time this fall, a jury was unable to agree on a verdict in the trial of Abbe Bergeron of Cornwall, Ont., on a charge of corruptly giving $10,000 to a member of Parliament.

1,200 ARRESTED IN S. AFRICA 'SWOOP'

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuters) — Police arrested 1,242 persons — both whites and Negroes — in a massive swoop Friday night in the Transvaal and Natal.

The police commissioner, who said he personally led the operation, claimed the persons arrested were connected with murder, rape, assault, theft and illegal possession of firearms and drugs.

SALARY CUTS TOO

Decision Due Monday on Purdy

VANCOUVER (CP) — A re-ment expropriated the company that the B.C. Electric Company's board of directors will ask for the resignation of former president Dr. Harry L. Purdy was described as "imagination" today by chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum.

Dr. Shrum confirmed that a special board meeting will be held Monday to discuss personnel problems, including salaries, but said the question of Dr. Purdy's resignation has already been discussed by the board and "the matter is closed." He did not say what decision the board had made.

But Dr. Purdy asked if he is going to resign or retire, said: "I guess that will be up to the board on Monday."

The Province says Premier Bennett has directed the resignation of Dr. Purdy, who was demoted to vice-president of operations after the govern-

Beauty Seen By Scientist In Far North

The Arctic is not the bleak and desolate wasteland pictured by many who have never travelled in the far north, Dr. William English, assistant director of the Pacific Naval Laboratory, said here Friday.

Dr. English recounted his experiences as a member of the Pacific Naval Laboratory's Arctic expedition last spring in a talk to Victoria Lions Club in the Empress Hotel.

"Most people think of the Arctic as being a long way off," he said, "but actually the distance from Victoria to Isachsen in the Northwest Territories is the same as from here to Ottawa."

"My dominant impression was not one of starkness but of serenity," Dr. English said. "There is an intriguing beauty in the soft contours and spectacular lighting effects."

Refuge in 'Hamlet' Sought by Accused

Mayorality candidate W. A. (Bill) Scott, otherwise known as Victoria's "Lighthouse Philosopher," defended himself on an assault charge in city police court Friday by quoting Shakespeare.

"Would you describe yourself as a peaceful man, Mr. Scott?" asked city prosecutor Angus Smith.

Mr. Scott considered the question, then replied: "Well, let me put it this way: 'Beware of entrance to a quarrel, but, being in, bear' that the opposed may beware of you' (Hamlet, Act I, Scene III)."

"I see," Mr. Smith answered.

The case arose from a scuffle in Mr. Scott's pawn shop at 617 Johnson on the evening of Oct. 10.

Mr. Scott was charged with assault causing actual bodily harm to William Arthur Brown, 1140 Government. In turn, Mr. Scott brought a similar charge against Brown.

Each denied the assault. Mr. Smith prosecuted Scott, but did not defend Brown against Scott's charge.

NO CARDS

Slayer Gets His Wish

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — James Kendrick, convicted slayer of a highway patrolman, beat his Christmas deadline with time to spare.

He set himself last summer in a plea to be executed. "I don't want mercy," he wrote in a hand-printed petition. "I want action."

"If they don't do it soon, I'll have to buy more Christmas cards."

The 31-year-old killer was convicted of the 1960 slaying of California Highway Patrolman Richard Duval in southern California for speeding. At the time Kendrick was fleeing holdups around Lake Tahoe and Reno, Nev.

He shot Duval, 26, three times at close range.

In prison, he wrote a judge it was cruel and unusual punishment to keep him on death row and not tell him when he would die. He asked for action and got it.

The date was set for Friday. At 10:02 a.m., they dropped the pellets in the gas chamber.

Twelve minutes later Kendrick was pronounced dead.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Friday: Robert Gary Brown, 106 Moss, $40 and licence suspension, careless driving.

Clarence Glen Alexander Clark, HMCS Assiniboine, $35, careless driving.

Marguerite Marie Guay, Cobble Hill, $35, careless driving.

Kenneth Irwin Cunningham, 214 Suzanne Place, $35, careless driving.

George A. Trvetcoff, 4286 Cedar Hill, $20, no driver's licence.

Robert John Chapman, 2851 Colquitz, $15, over 30.

Glen L. Twells, 649 Mount View, $10, illegal right turn.

Albert Barry Smith, 4450 Tyndall, $3, failing to produce driver's licence.

Barry Gordon Menzies, 1860 Greatford, $5, failing to wear eyeglasses.

Both cases were heard at the same time.

After the interlocked trials had been heard, Magistrate J. A. Byers reserved judgment until Nov. 10.

If Mr. Scott is found guilty of assault, it could disqualify him from contesting the city mayorality election for a period of five years.

Printing Firm Hit by Fire

EDMONTON (CP) — A five-hour fire of undetermined origin raged through Bulletin Printers Limited on the eastern fringes of downtown Edmonton Friday, causing an estimated $1,000,000 damage.

Fire Marshal George Constable said indications are that the fire started near a transformer at the rear of the building.

Bulletin Printers lost two linotype machines, 12 presses and its complete bookbinding equipment.

William Huff, manager of Graphic Engraving, Limited and William Huff Art Studios, termed the loss "considerable."

His firm lost cameras, etching machines and a proof press.

BURNLEY CONTINUES TO WIN

Everton Blanks 'Spurs

LONDON (AP) — Right-winger John Connelly scored for Burnley in the second minute today and sparked the English Soccer League leaders to a 3-0 victory over Aston Villa — a win that left Burnley leading the standings by four points.

Burnley now has 23 points in 15 games. Everton, Ipswich and West Ham United each has 19 points in 16 games.

A crowd of 55,000 saw home town Everton defeat Tottenham, England's hope in the European Cup of Champions, 3-0.

Frank Wignall, Everton's centre forward, scored Everton's first goal in the 42nd minute. Second half goals from winger Billy Bingham and another from Wignall completed Tottenham's rout.

Ipswich Town kept in the hunt for the first division championship by defeating Nottingham Forest 1-0.

West Ham United turned in one of the best displays of the day by beating Manchester City 5-3 away from home — after being 3-1 down at halftime. Manchester's inside-right Peter Dobing scored his team's three goals in the first half.

Ipwich Town hit back by scoring three of their four second-half goals in five minutes to take the lead and swoop ahead to victory. Left-winger Malcolm Musgrove scored in the 55th and 56th minutes, and centre-forward Alan Sealy scored another in the 60th minute. Inside right John Dick got West Ham's fifth goal in the 75th minute.

Sheffield Wednesday defeated Manchester United 3-1 — despite extensive changes by Manchester in a bid to get a winning team.

Chelsea won 3-0 at Arsenal, but remains at the foot of the standings with only 10 points.

Stanley Matthews played his first away game in the second division for Stoke City after being transferred home from Blackpool — and drew Swansea Town's biggest game of the season, 20,000. But Swansea edged Matthews' team 1-0.

The giant killers started hitting the trail in the first round of the English Cup.

Margate, a team of part-timers, shocked Bournemouth, third division leaders and top candidates for promotion, with a 3-0 victory at Bournemouth.

The round included third and fourth division teams and amateur and part-time professional clubs that have fought through the qualifying rounds. First and second division teams come in in the third round in January.

Public Apathy To Drug Probe 'Shocking'

(Compiled from CP)

VANCOUVER — Lack of public interest in drug hearings of the restrictive trade practices commission was termed "shocking and unbelievable" Friday by John C. Turnbull, secretary-manager of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association.

In Toronto, he said in an interview, there were "never more than three citizens at the whole two weeks of hearings."

Yet, he said, facts were being presented on a matter that a few months earlier had been indicated "as of number one interest in Canada." He referred to publicity about drug prices and sale of drugs by generic names.

Mr. Turnbull was here to discuss basic arrangements for the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association's annual convention to be held here Aug. 12-16, 1962.

"The only conclusion we can draw is that much of the fuss stirred up was in some cases for political purposes and for individual financial gain on the part of a few distributors or companies."

Murder Charge

PRINCE RUPERT — Grzegorz Sikora, 36, also known as Harry Chikora, was charged with murder Friday in the death of Mary Azak of Canyon City.

The woman's body was found in Sikora's bedroom late Thursday.

An inquest was scheduled for Friday. Sikora will appear in Burnaby police court Nov. 13.

Chinese Guilty

VANCOUVER — Hien Dien Cheng, 71, Friday pleaded guilty to 10 counts of conspiring to bring Chinese into Canada illegally.

He pleaded guilty of conspiracy to make and use false documents for obtaining passports and bringing four Chinese to Canada in violation of the Immigration Act between June, 1957, and January, 1958.

Meanwhile, Lila Chen, co-owner of a cafe and lounge in downtown Vancouver, was charged Friday with conspiring to bring Chinese nationals into Canada illegally.

He's 'Fed Up'

VANCOUVER — A 40-year-old chemical engineer, fed up with the American way of life, left here at midnight Friday with his wife and five children for Melbourne, Australia.

William McKinney, who has been the chief chemist at the Koppers Company plant in Oil City, Pa., for eight years, had "about $3,000" with him when he boarded the liner Canberra and no prospects of a job Down Under.

Mr. McKinney, who avoided publicity here, said he was leaving the United States to escape socialism and inflation.

He described Australia's new frontier as "natural, not artificial."

Body Recovered

TERRACE — The body of Walter Grandison, 19, who was drowned with Bertie Mercer, 24, in the Cedar River, 32 miles north of here, was recovered Thursday. The men, from Alysh, were attempting to cross the river on a log.

Chinese Fined

MONTREAL (CP) — Two members of Montreal's Chinese community were fined a total of $2,500 Friday and sentenced to one day in jail on charges arising from illegal entry of Chinese aliens into Canada.

ADENAUER'S PARTY AGREES TO COALITION

BONN (Reuters) — A West German coalition government between Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrat legislators agreed to the deal.

With nothing but parliamentary formalities lying ahead, it was expected the new government, headed by Adenauer, would come into existence next week.

Terms assure the 85-year-old Adenauer a limited new term as chancellor. Adenauer, in a cheerful mood after today's meeting, was asked by reporters if he was satisfied with the result of the meeting.

He smiled and said: "I am hungry." Pressed further, he said "I am not dissatisfied."

Provisions in the agreement disclosed included:

1. A call for the armed forces of all NATO states, including West Germany, to be armed with all modern weapons, including modern launchers for atomic weapons.
2. A say for West Germany and the other European NATO powers in the control of atomic warheads.
3. An increase in the length of military draft from 12 to 18 months.

4. An increased integration of West German forces into NATO's command structure.

5. Barred would be any loosening of Berlin links with West Germany; any recognition of Communist East Germany; a settlement on Germany's frontiers until an all-German peace treaty is signed; and direct or indirect approval of the closure of the Berlin border by East Germany.

$100 MORE OFFERED FOR ARSONIST

Rewards for the conviction of a suspected arsonist in the Cecelia Road area jumped another $100 Friday.

Employees of the Builder's Sash and Door brought the reward up to $800.

City council has put up $500 and J. W. Lord, owner of Builder's Sash and Door, $200.

Despite the firebug threat Mr. Lord still intends to go ahead with construction of a new plant on Cecelia.

"I may be forced to build it with fireproof materials. It may sound funny for a lumber company to build a plant out of concrete blocks, but we've got to do something," Mr. Lord said.

Deadline for occupancy of the new plant is April, 1962.

Hattie Toll Now 204

BELIZE (AP) — Thirty-six bodies dug out from the ruins of the courthouse of this British Honduras capital raised the death toll of hurricane Hattie today to 204. Cleanup crews found the bodies in the smashed British colonial administration building where residents fled for refuge when the storm struck early Tuesday.

NEW YORK (AP) — The World-Telegram and Sun said today U.S. government space experts are investigating reports that the Soviet Union launched and lost a super-secret spaceship with three cosmonauts aboard.

It said the reports came from agents in various foreign countries and that scientists believe the spaceship left its orbit and carried its crew into outer space and certain death.

The newspaper said the reports contained this information: The spaceship was launched from the Krasny Yar testing ground near Stalingrad on Oct. 14, three days before the Communist party congress convened in Moscow.

Ultra-high frequency signals from the spaceship were picked up by observatories in Tokyo, Dakar, West Africa, Sydney, Australia, and Bochum, West Germany.

Tokyo's radio wave research institute received loud, clear signals at three-minute intervals for 40 minutes, then weaker signals for two hours and 20 minutes. Then the signal stopped.

The newspaper said the institute "estimated the spaceship went into orbit at 250 to 300 miles above the earth, highest orbit ever attempted."

Apparently it was too high.

"I may be forced to build it with fireproof materials. It may sound funny for a lumber company to build a plant out of concrete blocks, but we've got to do something," Mr. Lord said.

Deadline for occupancy of the new plant is April, 1962.

NEEDLES STUCK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Air Force said Friday night a study of telemetry signals indicates that 350,000,000 copper needles carried aloft by a Midas satellite were ejected into space but had not been dispersed as planned.

The midas was fired on Oct. 31 from Point Arguello, Calif.

There is not yet any definite evidence as to why the needles have not been released, the air force said.

The tiny copper wires were intended to form a belt around the globe to form a reflector for radio signals.

East, West Not Far Apart On Berlin, Nehru Believes

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru of India flew into London today on his way to the United States for talks with President Kennedy and said he thinks the East-West crisis over Berlin is easing.

The Indian statesman told reporters as far as he can see there already is common ground between the Communist and Western powers on several aspects of the German question.

He noted: 1. The two states of East and West Germany seem to be functioning normally and should be allowed to go on doing so.

2. West Berlin itself enjoys close links with Western countries which must be maintained, particularly in regard to the freedom of the access routes.

Better Use of Own Troops U.S. Advice for Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor is understood to have told President Kennedy that South Viet Nam President Ngo Dinh Diem should make more effective use of his own troops and resources in his struggle with Communist guerrillas.

Taylor is believed to have recommended increased American training and supply programs to increase the mobility and striking power of the South Viet Nam troops.

Taylor, the president's special military adviser, returned Friday from an intense study of the situation in Southeast Asia. He found increasing support from outside Communists for the Red guerrillas operating within South Viet Nam.

He reported to the president at the White House, after indicating to newsmen when he arrived in Washington that he would not recommend sending any large number of U.S. combat forces to South Viet Nam now.

He said the "human resources" there now are "adequate."

He had said in Saigon that the major need was for more effective mobilization of existing Viet Namese sources and manpower.

The White House issued no details of the conference, which lasted for two hours. It said Kennedy would study Taylor's report during the coming week, after Secretary

NEW YORK (AP) — The Methodist Church announced Friday plans for a $2,000,000 inter-denominational church centre for the promotion of peace and the study of international affairs. Construction of the 12-story building will start here next year.

Victoria men Speak out for Wawanesa

And we've been doing it for some time. 29 years in fact. You'd expect after that time we would have a pretty fair background in the business! Through those years we've seen a lot of changes — both in people's situations and needs, and in the policies Wawanesa has created to meet them... throughout their general insurance program. Understand one thing about us if you will. While we are Wawanesa's agents, we are your agents, too. The Wawanesa people fully expect us to help them satisfy you — by seeing you have the insurance you want and need, and that any claim that might arise is settled the way you and we feel it should be — quickly and fairly. If you've been wondering about your insurance — not necessarily whether you have enough, but if what you have is what you need — and you'd like closer guidance, may we look it over and discuss it with you? Give us a call at any time or drop in when you're close by.

Quarter Century on the Air

AS THE CANADIAN BROADCASTING CORPORATION observes its silver anniversary none of its executives can be unaware of the criticism leveled continuously at the national radio and television network.

Some of that criticism is conventionally directed at all media of mass communication. The people who want more sport on the air and on the small screen object to what they consider an overload of so-called "cultural" programs. Those who want more "culture" find fault with the time given to sport.

According to some listeners and viewers, too much emphasis is given to "educational" programs. Others hold that not enough is given to "education."

The criticisms are endless. There are charges of political interference—in almost every case successfully rebutted. There are allegations that the CBC is a nest of "pinkos" or worse. The opinions are as varied as the people who look and listen.

There are reasoned criticisms based on knowledge and concerned with principles. To champions of a free enterprise society, there is a serious fault in the existence of a mass medium created by the government, supported largely by taxpayers and granted control over a wide area of public information and entertainment on the air and on the viewing screen. How, ask critics, can an institution so created and so maintained escape if not political interference, at least some measure of government influence?

So the debate on different facets of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation continues.

No one challenges the statement that the CBC is expensive. It will cost the taxpayers some $60,000,000 this year and the 1960-61 annual report showed capital assets costing $49,780,358. No one denies that it carries a large staff—7,153 regular employees in 1960 plus another 19,572 writers, performing artists and speakers on a contributory basis.

But when all has been said, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation does a job and it does it perhaps as well as any such organization in the world, far better than most. The awards won by different programs support that statement. And, despite the mistakes that are inevitable when human beings engage in any enterprise, its record of performance invites favorable comparison with radio and television work anywhere.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has accepted an obligation to help Canadians to understand Canadians better. As a unifying force, it accomplishes more than any other medium. In the main its programs are watched throughout the nation not because of a sense of national duty on the part of viewers, but because CBC productions are good.

The magnificent coverage given to the explosion of Ripple Rock a year or two ago is a case in point. For the average family, the television coverage of National Hockey League games shows a camera technique unmatched even by the big United States networks.

Thanks to CBC excellence, Canadians can watch a ceremonial opening of Parliament or a major event in almost any part of the country and be proudly identified as Canadians with the occasion.

The threads of Canadian culture in its broadest sense are woven together by the competent people of the CBC. The Canadian of Quebec and his compatriot in British Columbia are drawn closer together by familiarity of sight and sound furnished by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

After 25 years the national system can look back upon a history worthy of respect. Despite its imperfections, despite the attacks, legitimate and unwarranted, made upon it, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is justified in expecting 25th birthday greetings to include hope for its continued good health, competence and vitality.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

A walk along a byroad or some hedgerow will show you many fascinating things.

Note the fallen leaves, see how each species is attached to the twig, the shape of the leaf, its veins and the edges.

In many cases you can see the new leaf bud forming. This is already quite noticeable in the Red Alder, Bird cherry and Dogwood.

See the leads on the Douglas fir saplings. Where there was lots of moisture the lead will be perhaps a foot in length, but where the ground is rocky and dry perhaps only a few inches will show.

If you come across the Soapopallie bush you can see the tiny coppery green flowers forming ready to burst into bloom early in the new season.

The red alder catkins and fruiting cones are already formed and with them in many cases the old brown cones that look like small bottle-brushes.

As you walk along you may see the tiny inish-tit or the little wrens as they dart from twig to twig. They never seem to sit still for a moment. Chickadees will fly along ahead of you in the tree tops, then suddenly they vanish.

Many fungi can be found; some on the rotting logs, others pushing up through the grass or amongst the sparse undergrowth.

In a cleared spot you will see the bright orange-yellow of the elf-cup, or maybe a coral fungi with its many-branched head.

FROM WASHINGTON

Time for a Giant U.S. Step in Trans-Atlantic Trade

IN a statement issued jointly by Mr. Christian Herter and Mr. Will Clayton, and published as a Congressional document by Rep. Hale Boggs' Committee, they say that "the time has come for the United States to take a giant step."

The giant step is in the field of tariffs and trade policy, and the direction of the giant step is towards a much closer trading relationship with the non-Communist world.

The purpose of the step is to increase greatly the prosperity of the non-Communist world. The significance of the step is that it will draw together the non-Communist world into a union quite capable of confronting the Communist orbit confidently, of competing with it effectively, and of co-existing with it securely.

It is a grandiose undertaking. But it is not a vision in the air.

The Atlantic Community has existed as an historic fact since the Spanish and the Portuguese, the French, the British, the Dutch and the Swedes, colonized North and South America some three centuries ago. That there has always been an Atlantic Community since then is attested by our own history.

Beginning with colonial times there has been no great war in Europe in which Americans have not become engaged. What is called American isolationism was possible only in the hundred years between the battle of Waterloo and the battle of the Marne—that is to say, in that unique century when there was no world war.

The experience of the Second World War has taught the American people that it would be an illusion to think that they can return to the isolation of the nineteenth century. Now they are beginning to learn that economic isolation, in the sense that we can regard our trade policy as a domestic issue, is not only unworkable but undesirable.

It has become unworkable with the decision of Great Britain to join the Common Market, a decision that may be one of the most momentous in modern European history.

It has become undesirable to adhere to our traditional tariff policy, because we cannot afford to miss the opportunity to participate in a movement which will lift the non-Communist world out of the doldrums.

These are big words, and they might well be so much hot air if they were not that there is already under way negotiation of the terms of the new trading community. The United States will not come directly into these negotiations until Britain, having taken care of the vital interests of the Commonwealth, has been accepted as a member of the Common Market.

More or less simultaneously there will come into it also, with certain reserervations, Switzerland, Austria, and the Scandinavian countries.

When this has been accomplished, the U.S. will have to be ready to take what Messrs. Herter and Clayton call the giant step.

The enlarged Common Market will contain over 300,000,000 people working and living in what will very soon be a free trade area. It will be a larger free trade area than the internal market of the United States, and participating in this market will be the most advanced industrial countries in the world.

There can be no doubt that in such a big market European industry will advance spectacularly. As Under-Secretary of State for Economic Affairs George Ball pointed out to the Foreign Trade Convention, the industrial leaders of Western Europe "are laying plans for expansion, for additional specialization and market penetration on a scale that has no precedents in European history."

This will confront Americans with the question of whether they should seal themselves up in their own market or move to open up access for their exports to the much larger European markets. If they choose to open up the access, they will not obtain it as a favor or because Europe is grateful to them, or even because Europe depends upon them to save it from the military power of the Soviet Union.

They will be able to open up the European market to American business only if in return they open up the American market to European business.

There is general agreement among those who are studying and deliberating on the formation of United States policy. They agree that our relations with the enlarged Common Market cannot be worked out item by item, as under the existing tariff legislation. The only way our radically new relationship can be worked out is in effect to authorize the President to negotiate an economic arrangement with the Common Market providing for a broad reciprocal reduction of tariff walls.

Agreeing on this much, there is some difference of opinion about the political tactics that the President should adopt. Some think that he should go to Congress during the coming session and ask for new legislation to replace the old legislation which expires in June. Others think that he should declare and explain the new policy to this session of Congress, but that he should postpone specific legislation until 1963.

The argument of the first group is that letting the existing legislation expire without substituting any in its place would give the impression of a retreat from the policy of liberalizing trade.

The argument of the second group is that so great a change in our traditional tariff policy, this "giant step," requires a longer period of education and public debate than we have yet had. (C) 1961 New York Herald Tribune Inc.

FROM OTTAWA

Long-Distance Leadership Will Cause Some Complications

THE decision by Premier Tommy Douglas to stay on in Regina after he has severed his connections with the Saskatchewan government has caused some complications in the setup of the New Democratic Party.

The premier was scheduled to resign his post as leader of the government early in November. He will establish an office in the Saskatchewan capital complete with secretary. The office will be likely located in the Coldwell building which was built by the now defunct CCF party.

This means that the Ottawa headquarters of the New Democratic Party will have to operate at long distance in order to keep in touch with its new leader.

The headquarters of the New Party in Ottawa have been located in the old CCF head office in Woodsworth House.

As soon as Premier T. C. Douglas parts company from his provincial administration two new staff people will be added to the Ottawa headquarters establishment of the New Party.

They will include an executive assistant for Mr. Douglas who will be stationed in Ottawa where he can also do research work. In addition a private secretary will be employed. The secretary will be stationed in Regina to work with Mr. Douglas out there.

The NDP people concede that this arrangement of two offices can complicate the party's organization and lead to some difficulties. But they see no real problems. Involved is a question of close co-ordination and the long distance telephone tolls will mount.

Mr. Douglas is reluctant to move his home to Ottawa until after the federal election—next October, say the NDPers. They then claim he will move into the official residence of the prime minister on Sussex Street.

Meanwhile as soon as he steps down from the post of premier Mr. Douglas will hit the campaign trail in November and start an intensive tour that will take him across the country.

After leaving the Saskatchewan government Mr. Douglas will resign his provincial seat of Weyburn. It is located in the federal constituency of Assiniboia, a riding now represented in the House of Commons by Hazen Argue, the parliamentary leader of the CCF-New Democratic Party caucus in the Commons. Mr. Douglas for that reason will not seek nomination as a federal candidate in Assiniboia, his home territory, but will go farther afield, either to Regina or Saskatoon.

Mr. Argue ran against Mr. Douglas in the founding convention of the New Party for the office of national leader. He put up a good fight but lost out to the Saskatchewan premier who had the backing of the organized labor delegates.

Mr. Argue since the convention has been back in Saskatchewan relaxing on his farm at Kayville. He was contacted there by long distance telephone by this correspondent and informed of Dr. Eugene Forsey's action in parting company with the New Democratic Party.

Said Mr. Argue, "This is one of the top labor officials who will not be a member of the New Democratic Party. I expect that in the days ahead other well known labor people will be found supporting other political parties."

He added, "Some of Dr. Forsey's ideas in the past have seemed more in line with another political party than with the CCF. While the fact that Dr. Forsey was contemplating this move was not known to me it does not come as a particular surprise that he has decided that he cannot belong to the New Democratic Party." He would not elaborate.

AS THOUGH A CONTINENT HAD DISAPPEARED

An Inner Courage Under the Gentleness and Compassion

ONE by one the great artists who have shaped and formed the taste of my generation in literature, music, the arts and the drama are dying. Since this is a natural process there is no use weeping, but the deaths of some of them hit me harder than others, either because those deaths are premature, or because their living personalities were somehow an essential ingredient in their work.

I think James Thurber belongs in both these categories, for me. I am sure that 66 is a relatively early age to die, and I cannot think of any writer for whom it was possible to feel a greater affection, even though one never met him.

I don't need to remind you of his achievements as a writer and artist. He was, after all, one of the outstanding figures in what must surely be the greatest group of humorists ever assembled between the covers of a periodical.

He has told us himself, with that lack of false modesty which is the sign of the truly humble spirit, of that group and of the part that he played in it. In his book "The Years with Ross" one of the few works of the last ten years for which one might confidently predict immortality.

Of his drawings, I can only say that they are, literally, inimitable. As immediately recognizable as a drawing by Durer or Picasso, they are so much a part of Thurber's own personality that no one, to my knowledge, has ever tried to borrow from them, which in a world that teems with carbon-copiers, is a kind of testimony to Thurber's uniqueness.

Those women—shapeless and massive, with lank hair, and noses like one of the "Demoiselles d'Avignon"—vaguely menacing, always on the lookout for an opportunity to score a point in the ceaseless competition between the sexes which fascinated Thurber. And the Thurber males, usually middle-aged, with their downtrodden air in spite of the attempt at jauntiness symbolized by their bowties, and their tendency to withdraw from reality in the face of aggression by the females of his cartoons.

Occasionally the males score a point. Who can forget, for instance, the expression on the face of the Thurber husband who, after studying the cold, sad countenance of his dumpy spouse, says: "You may not be beautiful, Edna—but by God, you're enigmatic!"

That is one to set beside the cartoon in which the female, top (lady) dog on this occasion as on so many others, is saying accusingly to her newspaper-reading mate: "Well, who made the magic-go out of our marriage?"

Thurber people are almost invariably middle-aged, but they have their youthful moments. Do you remember the lady with her cheerful "Best of three falls, Mr. Montgomery? Okay!"?

The drawings themselves are re-buttal enough for those poor people who imagine that artistic expression demands a 4H pencil and six fears of drawing from the plaster cast. By any academic standard they are terrible and yet they achieve a mastery which is, in total, so absolutely authoritative, that it is impossible to imagine the idea expressed in any other way than by the whimsical line and the sloppy shapes that were his copyright and his trademark.

But great as his cartoons were, and however memorable his illustrations of familiar poems ("Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight," "Locksley Hall," "The Hounds of Spring"—among many others), I think it is chiefly as a writer that I personally shall remember him.

It is the usual thing in a funeral oration to claim greater qualities for the deceased than he ever possessed, but I don't think I am exaggerating when I say that Thurber was the master of a lucid and economical English prose style equalled by few in our time, and surpassed by none.

His essays are in a class by themselves; his hilarious recitals of the comic predicaments into which he and his family are alleged to have fallen have become part of the Western European tradition, to such an extent that The Night the Bed Fell, and The Day the Dam Broke have passed into the common stock from which allusions and quotations are drawn; and in "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty" he has written a comic masterpiece that combines psychological profundity with a surface that compels laughter in almost every line. As a parodist he can stand beside Max Beerbohm. Indeed, in his "Beast in the Dingle" he challenged for the title by parodying Henry James, Max's personal property, and emerged, I would have said, victorious.

Perhaps it is "The Years with Ross," though, to which Thurber admirers will return again and again, because it contains not only the unforgettable portrait of the remarkable "gee-whizz kid" who made the "New Yorker" what it became—and I for one would put "The New Yorker" alongside jazz, and call them America's contribution to the treasury of civilization—but also it reveals so much of Thurber's own life and hard times.

Of his struggle against blindness, eventually lost, it is impossible to read without being deeply moved. Not that Thurber is playing for your tears; no writer was ever less given to self-pity. He has even made comic capital out of his disastrously poor sight, as when he once described the wonderful things he was privileged to see on the occasions when he had lost or broken his spectacles.

In a television interview in CBC's "Close Up" not long ago, he spoke passionately of what it was like to be blind in a way that revealed an inner courage under the gentleness and the compassion which mark his work.

Every man's death diminishes me, as the poet-preacher reminded us, but with the news of Thurber's death I feel that I have lost more than a "manor of my friends." It is as though a whole continent of humor and gentle mockery and humanity had disappeared.

Both Doing Well

PRINCESS MARGARET HAS become so well known to Canadians, through the news columns, pictures and actual contacts, that there is a warm personal flavor to the messages of congratulation and verbal good wishes now being directed toward Clarence House.

Few prospective mothers have been subjected to the popular interest which had followed the first news that a child was expected in the Armstrong-Jones household. And the pleasure at the latest announcement of the birth of a son is a very real feeling among the millions who have a Commonwealth association with the Royal Family.

Among Victorians, who not so long ago were hosts to the Princess, there is a special warmth in the expressions of congratulation to her and the Earl of Snowdon, and in wishes of good fortune for their child.

The Missing Link

THE RESIGNATION OF MR.

Paul Comtois, minister of mines, to become lieutenant-governor of Quebec gives Mr. Diefenbaker the chance to improve his cabinet representation from French Canada.

A vacancy is waiting for another Quebec minister and no doubt the Prime Minister wishes to fill it with the best possible man. But where is an adequate French Canadian leader to be found?

Mr. Diefenbaker has found none. Neither has Mr. Pearson. One of the gravest weaknesses, among many in our current political situation is the lack of any man, in any party, to speak with authority for the French Canadian community.

Since the historic partnership of Macdonald and Cartier successful Canadian government has always depended upon the partnership of a powerful English-speaking and an equally powerful French Canadian leader. Our best governments, in fact, have been coalitions, the last of them composed of Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Howe.

There is no such coalition today. Mr. Diefenbaker's Quebec ministers are virtual nonentities in government, every portfolio of importance being held by English-speaking ministers. The whole governmental system is out of balance.

No doubt the weakness of its representation in the cabinet is one of the reasons why Quebec has lately turned away from the Conservative party but this is not the most serious result of the present situation. Much more serious for Canada's unity is Quebec's feeling that it has no adequate voice at Ottawa.

For the absence of such a voice neither Mr. Diefenbaker nor Mr. Pearson is to blame. Both are eager to find the sort of lieutenants found by their predecessors—but Quebec has not supplied them. By a stroke of luck which served him and the nation well, Mr. Mackenzie King found Mr. St. Laurent, a lawyer without any political experience but, as it turned out, a future prime minister of the highest abilities. Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Pearson have had no luck in Quebec so far.

Now, On With the Job

THERE WILL BE GENERAL relief and approval of the news that construction work on the new Jubilee Hospital wing will probably begin within the next two weeks. Two years of delay for one reason or another have been a disappointment for the public which responded so generously to the appeal for funds and to workmen of the community who have looked forward to a year or more of employment on the project.

A favorable result of the delay has been an opportunity to revise the original plans and provide a more up-to-date and efficient hospital unit. Insofar as there has been improvement, and better facilities for the money, the public will be content.

But the need is now pressing and the project should suffer no further set-backs. When it is completed the community will have an excellent addition to its hospital accommodation. But the order now must be full speed ahead.

Gerald Waring ... REPORTING

OTTAWA — "Peace and Friendship," it says on the invitation card, are the themes of the big wing-ding that Amasap A. Aroutunian is holding at his house on Tuesday night.

Mr. Aroutunian is not exactly a Pearl Mesta, but his annual parties are dillies. He jams his house with people who gorge on caviar and other delicacies of the laden board, and a-slosh down as many vodkas as his energetic underlings can persuade them to consume. Vodka is a great promoter of international good will—to say nothing of how it loosens tongues.

The occasion of this "Peace and Friendship" fest is the 44th anniversary of the Great October Socialist Revolution on Nov. 7. In pre-Great October Socialist Revolution Russia nothing worked very well—not even the calendar. The Bolsheviks thought they were revolting in October when actually they were revolting in November. But the Communists know when they are revolting—which brings us to the point, if any, of these ramblings.

Like a good many hostesses, Mr. Aroutunian is worried. "What if nobody comes?" Maybe the bourgeois Canadians haven't properly appreciated the recent manifestations of Soviet peace and friendship: the 50-megaton bomb, the curt rejection of Canada's note of protest over the bomb, the harsh words Symon Tsearapkin has applied to Canada at the United Nations, and Comrade Khrushchev's intransigence in his dealings with the West. So our good host has taken precautions. He has greatly increased the number of persons he has invited to his party. With 2,500 invitations reportedly going out, if some people boycott the affair, he'll still have enough caviar-and-vodka lovers and Canadian Reds to put on a good show.

There doesn't seem to be any organized boycott developing. As usual the Canadian government will be represented—by a junior cabinet minister designated for the occasion because Foreign Minister Green will be out of town. Liberal leader Pearson also will be out of town, but he wouldn't go anyway. He wants the government to sponsor a UN resolution to condemn the U.S.S.R. for aggression by nuclear fall out, but Green ridicules the suggestion.

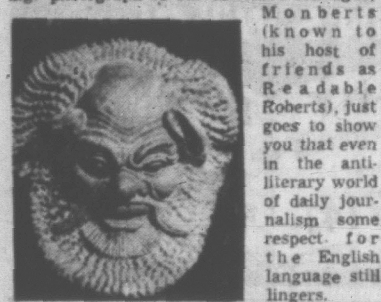

Many people stayed away from Russian parties after Igor Gouzenka revealed Soviet espionage activities in Canada. The embassy's insulting refusal to transmit a note from the East Block to the Kremlin over the 50-megaton may have a similar result. MPs facing an election soon may not want to be seen in Communist company. And senior civil servants, aware of the government's rancor over the note and the bomb, and resentful themselves of the Soviet insult, may be more obvious by their absence than their presence.

In the prison-like embassy on Charlotte Street, the boys in shiny blue serge with bell-bottom pants are ticking off the RSVP replies and chalking up a daily tote board for Mr. A. Tote board is a good phrase for it, because the Soviet ambassador is making a bet: that he can slap the Canadian government across the face, as he did over the diplomatic note, and they'll smile and turn the other cheek.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

The Inkstained Adverb

A SPIRITED defence of the adverb which appeared in this newspaper the other night under the byline (and a trifle flattering) photograph of our esteemed colleague, odd long sentence in this newspaper. If this column were given its head, you'd be surprised at what it can do in that line.

The reason I mention Monberts' cri du coeur is that for the last few days comments have been heard from all over, most of them expressing surprise that one who spends his life in the vulgar and meaningless bustle of newspaper offices should even know what an adverb looks like, much less make conscious use of one.

Well, no doubt it was to be expected. Professional standards are never taken at their face value. Teachers are all ignorant, lawyers are all criminals, doctors are all pillpushers. Since this is so, newspapermen who daily write thousands and thousands of English words must obviously know nothing of the English language.

When one of them has the temerity to shoulder his uncouth way into the rarified atmosphere of hardcover novelists, he must keep his profession a dark secret from the critics. If a doctor or a ditchdigger writes a good novel, everything is rosy; but if a known journalist does so, the surprise is universal.

Likewise, if Monberts so much as mentions an adverb, sniffs of outrage are heard from all sides. Nevertheless, it is to be hoped that he will keep up his quixotic crusade against those who never open their mouths or take up their pens without mangling their mother tongue. For the work must be done, and for some reason the scornful purists don't seem to be able to do it.

U THANT self-controlled

Middle Course Pledge By New UN Chief

By JOSEPH MACSWEEEN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—U Thant of Burma, a quiet-spoken Buddhist, was unanimously elected acting secretary-general of the United Nations Friday to succeed Dag Hammarskjöld.

Speaking with strictly controlled emotion, the 52-year-old diplomat pledged to pursue objectivity between East and West as his "relatively small country" has tried to do through the years.

U Thant's acceptance speech was delivered in a quiet way reminiscent of Hammarskjöld, the Swede who died in an African plane crash Sept. 18 while in performance of his duties. Hammarskjöld has since been awarded the Nobel Prize for peace, posthumously.

The "U" in Thant's name has the vague meaning of "mister," as with many Burmese names.

The blue-and-gold assembly hall was jammed for the event and many of the spectators showed more emotion than the new acting secretary-general, schooled as he is for self-control under Buddhist tenets.

Taking the oath of office as administered by General Assembly President Mongi Slim of Tunisia, U Thant swore not to seek or accept instruction in regard to the performance of his duties "from any government, or other authority external to the United Nations."

U Thant, in his acceptance speech, said he would invigilate a limited number of UN under-secretaries to "act as my principal advisers on important questions."

MENTIONS TWO MEN

He specifically mentioned only two—Ralph Bunche of the United States, a Negro, and Georgy Arkadev of the Soviet Union, who also served under Hammarskjöld for years.

"It is also my intention to work together with these colleagues in close collaboration and consultation in a spirit of mutual understanding," U Thant said.

On behalf of External Affairs Minister Green, the Canadian UN delegation released a statement lauding U Thant's appointment and noting that Canada has long believed that a successor for Hammarskjöld could be found within UN ranks. U Thant has represented Burma since 1957.

U Thant's reference to advisers was a key part of his speech.

This reflected his four agreements on a formula he presented to the major powers secretly Thursday. It broke a deadlock over whether there should be seven principal advisers, favored by the Soviet Union, or five, favored by the Western powers.

Wishful Thinking No Use As Refuge in Nuclear War

Times reporter Ab Kent spent two weeks in October at Canadian Civil Defence College, Arnprior, Ont., on a national survival course. In this series of six articles he will describe some aspects of Canada's civil defence program, how it affects individuals and some of its weaknesses.

Canada is a nation of wishful thinkers. Because we dread the threat of nuclear war and losing the creature comforts, we wish it won't happen.

The wish soothes, tulling us into a sense of security. After all, it wouldn't be our war.

But Canadians have as much will to live as anyone. Why do so many shrug off the suggestion that they could survive even a large-scale nuclear holocaust? Partly because so far there has been a factual famine about self-preservation.

Half-knowledge and apathy about the facts of national survival—individual survival, if you like—has put the concept of civil defence in a ludicrous light.

PM Confuses Issue

Even our prime minister confuses the issue by first putting his signature to published information on steps to survival, then by saying he would remain in the capital while his government is evacuated to the nation's biggest air raid shelter 20 miles outside Ottawa.

It is the individual's own choice, provided he has some facts.

In the hope that the current focus on nuclear bombs, shelters, fallout and civil defence plans and policies have aroused more than conversational curiosity, this series aims to help the average citizen make his choice.

Little Warning

Three weeks ago Col. C. L. Smith, commandant of the Canadian Civil Defence College, Arnprior, Ont., said:

"We are faced with the possibility of war with 15 minutes' warning. There will never again be a declaration of war."

There could be war without any warning. And it most likely would be full-scale.

"The West will never fight a preventive war," Col. Smith said. "There will be terrific damage. There may well be chaos on this continent in a nuclear attack."

It was the one-armed colonel who labelled us a nation of wishful thinkers.

"We feel we are in an offensive nation. We don't want war. We feel that any war would be between the two ideologies of the United States and Russia.

"Too many people think we should buy a lot of yellow paint and paint big directional signs on our buildings—200 miles to Detroit; 600 miles to Washington."

Actually, civilians have a better outlook than they may think they have in the initial phase of any attack.

The first strike by any enemy would be upon our retaliatory defences—the strategic air bases, the Bomarc launch sites, far from the population centres.

But even so, we must allow for expediency or a dumped bomb load that overshoots or never reached its target.

Up to Civilians

In this and in the matter of radio-active fallout from a nuclear blast, civil defence is vitally concerned. Although training, organization and most of the financing emanates from the department of national health and welfare, the effort in civil defence is based upon civic participation.

And there is one of its greatest weaknesses.

The military does not take over in the event of disaster, as many people think. Their role is a co-ordinated one with civil defence.

By the charter which established Canada as a sovereign dominion—the British North America Act—the federal government may not force the provinces to accept civil defence responsibility, although most have done so.

No Compulsion

Nor can the provinces force the municipalities.

For example, the city of Ottawa itself has only just accepted a civil defence program, even though the federal organization has existed within the city 11 years.

At the moment, one of the greatest needs is for a radiation monitoring capacity within every local area, fitting into the role just recently accepted by the army for setting up a national grid to plot fallout.

Thus is outlined a basic need in the existing civil defence system. It may change overnight through emergency or amended policy. Administrative change is expected by many. "There are changes... writing on the wall," Col. Smith forecast.

"It will be department of national defence responsibility to monitor, but this does not mean they will do it," he said.

"The army will help, but we still will be asked by the department of national defence to assist in training civilian monitoring personnel."

The proposed monitoring network will be the subject of the next instalment in this series.

'U.K. BOMBS CAN WIPE OUT SOVIET CITIES'
CARLUKE, Scotland (AP)—Britain has sufficient nuclear striking power to "put most of Russia's big cities out of existence," Foreign Secretary, the Earl of Home said Friday night.

"But we do not brandish our bombs like Mr. Khrushchev," Lord Home declared, "because we believe that power should be used with discretion and responsibility and never in anger and with aggressive intent."

The foreign secretary was speaking to a Conservative party rally in this Lanarkshire town.

A WRITER'S DIARY

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

I had just finished reading Ernest Raymond's Mr. Olm when the Oct. 14 issue of The New Yorker arrived containing Muriel Spark's fine long-short story, The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie. These works share a theme—the influence of a teacher of strong and eccentric personality on those taught.

They also suggest two lines of thought; first, that Miss Spark is one of the most interesting writers to appear in the past 10 years, whereas Mr. Raymond, who has been at the job for at least 30 years, and brings considerable gifts to it, has never really established himself as belonging in the first rank; second, that boys unquestionably respond to education differently from girls, and that perhaps it is a mistake to try to educate them together.

In "Mr. Olm" Ernest Raymond throws a light mantle of fiction over a real person, the Rev. Horace Dixon Elam, of St. Paul's School, London; he was, it appears, a man who felt himself neglected by and who lavished the gifts of his mind and cultivation (which were uncommon) on his classes, accompanying his extravagant embroideries on the curriculum with rich abuse and indiscreet personal confidences.

An Ideal to a Chosen Few

Miss Jean Brodie, teaching in a girls' school in Edinburgh, also felt herself cramped by the prescribed lessons, and enlarged the minds of her classes by confessions of her love affairs, her tastes in art, and her Fascist politics.

She created an elite within the school, she demanded unswerving loyalty to herself, she became for a time an ideal to her chosen few.

But mark what happens. When Mr. Olm's pupils have grown to man's estate they give a splendid testimonial dinner to their old master, praise him generously, reduce him to tears, and enshrine him in their hearts as one of the important influences of their early years.

Whereas Miss Brodie's girls, at about 18 or so, outgrow her, drift away from her, and one of them betrays her to the headmistress, so that she is discharged.

Both stories make it clear why Mr. Olm and Miss Brodie came to such different ends. Boys are educable; they are prepared to take ideas and ideals from an older man, which they either swallow whole or transmute into something of their own; when the process is over, they are grateful to their teacher.

Girls, after 16 or so, are ineducable; they learn, but they are their own teachers, or else they learn from men with whom they are in love; they have little gratitude toward the women who set them on their road in life.

Women Prefer to Learn From Life

Perhaps this explains why scholarships and endowments are usually the work of men, and why women (even when they have plenty of money) so rarely choose to part with any of it for purposes of education.

Both sexes learn, unquestionably, but they appear to learn in very different ways. Men can learn from teachers; women seem to prefer to learn from life.

How influential they are, some of them, these men and women who teach! I emphasize the word "some," for when I look back on my schooldays I find years at a stretch which must have been spent under the guidance of teachers whom I do not remember at all.

Others—especially three women who taught me before I was 12—live glowingly in my recollection, though all are dead now. Later, when I was taught by men, I seemed to encounter three principal groups—the Brutes (a few), the Dismals (many) and the Bombshells, for whom I shall carry an unaltered affection to my grave. The Brutes and the Dismals would have been misfits in any profession; they were people crippled or bruised by life.

But the Bombshells were the born teachers; I could not always learn from them because I had arid patches in my brain that nobody could cultivate, but I knew how good they were, and sometimes I pitied them as they struggled with my ineptitude, casting their pearls before a sorrowful swine.

There were two or three Mr. Olms in my collection and also a few male counterparts of Miss Jean Brodie. These latter wanted to be not only teachers but god-like lawgivers to their pupils.

Unhappy men! Their disciples were so soon grown up and off to work or the university, to find new heroes.

"ON THE LAKESHORE" by the late Carl Rungius, German-born American artist famed for painting the Canadian Rockies. At Victoria Art Gallery.

ART IN REVIEW

By ARTHUR CORRY

German-Born U.S. Artist Paints Canadian West

Sunday, is the last opportunity to see the excellent showing, "Shadbolt in Greece," an exhibit of abstract and semi-abstract, to realistic, paintings, at the Victoria Art Gallery. Here a local B.C. painter has proved that a "home-town boy" can make good in his home town.

Another outstanding western artist whose show should not be missed, is Carl Rungius. This exhibit also at the Victoria Art Gallery, closes tomorrow.

Without Carl Rungius records of the west and most certainly those of the Rocky Mountains would not be complete. These studies of animals, trees, mountains, and rocks, picture a virgin country, untouched by the hand of man, nature at its best.

The artist, born over 80 years ago in Germany, and a permanent resident in the United States, "found" Banff and at once fell in love with the Canadian landscape and wild-life. From this time on he spent many months out of each year in this his beloved land. A true Canadian at heart he painted a truly Canadian scene.

These paintings are chosen mainly from his earlier work, and I understand from good authority, from his best work. We are indeed indebted to the Glenbow Foundation of Calgary, in particular Mr. Moncrief Williamson, for his excellent exhibit.

REDUNDANT LABELS
"On The Lakeshore" is by far the most interesting in the animal studies. Here the bull moose seeks the scent of an enemy or possibly that of a mate, from the distant shore.

The groupings of "Mountains," "Spring," "Summer," "Autumn," and "Winter," I found invigorating and not unlike the studies the Group of Seven did in their earlier days. However I must protest the titles on each grouping. I would credit the "verge" "Gallery-goer" with enough intelligence to tell the difference between summer and winter. Here one had the feeling of returning to grade one, with "this is Winter" and "this is Summer."

Of course the Victoria Art Gallery is not to blame; after announcing a show, they are forced to hang the material they receive.

The artist is not aware of these arrangements and they are factors having no bearing on his artistic skill, which, after all, is what we are concerned with.

"Trees and Boulders," "Boulders and Tree Trunks," and "Forest," are particularly appealing, with a slight Emily Carr quality to them.

Rupert, a Little City With Big Ambition

PRINCE RUPERT, A GATEWAY TO ALASKA, by R. G. Large. Mitchell Press, Vancouver, 1960. 210 pages. Indexed, photographs, maps.

Reviewed by R. H. Roy

(Assistant Professor of History, Victoria College.)

Present and former residents of Prince Rupert together with many others interested in provincial history, will enjoy Mr. Large's recent book on Prince Rupert. The Mitchell Press has made this pictorial history most attractive, and the combination of numerous photographs and an easy, flowing text will make it a popular book.

This is not a history in the academic sense, and anyone looking for footnotes, sources and a bibliography will be disappointed.

Rather "it is an attempt to paint a picture," to quote the author's own words, and in this approach he has wisely let the photographs do most of the work. Most of his source material he found in old newspapers and by questioning many "old timers."

The fact that Prince Rupert is only 55 years old meant he was able to query the original pioneers of the area.

Prince Rupert was carved out of the raw bush country in 1906 to serve as the Pacific Ocean terminus of the Grand Trunk Railway. Three years later it had a population of 3,000 and boasted a real estate boom which could match any in B.C. In 1914, a year after a young man named T. D. Pattullo had been elected mayor, the first railway engine reached the port, and the excitement of this event had scarcely died down when war broke out.

Prince Rupert, which sent Colonel Cy Peck, VC, and other local men to the Canadian Expeditionary Force, did not benefit industrially or otherwise from the war as did the coastal centres to the south.

Business sagged, and not until the Second World War was the city "put on the map" and the population zoomed to 20,000.

The war in the Pacific resulted in the port becoming an important transshipment base for war material going to Alaska and the Pacific war theatre, and during the war Prince Rupert was invaded by both Canadian and American forces.

By 1945 there was a sufficient amount of diversified commerce and industry in the city to provide a fairly prosperous base for a slow but sure post-war expansion. There

On Tuesday they will give two performances of "Puss 'n Boots" at Sir James Douglas School, starting at 1:30 and 3:30. On Wednesday at 3 p.m. "Puss" will appear at Doncaster School.

"Shakespeare by Five" will be presented on Thursday evening at 8 at Victoria College. This is an interesting introduction to Shakespeare on stage and has been very successful in high schools on the mainland.

10 YEARS OF GROWTH

Gallery to Celebrate With 'Age of Elegance'

By AUDREY JOHNSON

A decade has passed since the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria took its first major step, moving from cramped quarters on Broughton Street, where it was known as the Art Centre, to its present Moss Street site.

The move was made possible through the generosity of one person, Miss Sara Spencer, who offered the Spencer family mansion to the city as an art gallery.

Ten years of steady and admirable progress have followed the city's acceptance of the gift. Victoria's B.C. Centenary project added a fireproof wing and the handsome gift of still another old Victoria family provided the Ker Wing.

FINE DIRECTION
Under the imaginative direction of curator Colin Graham, and with the fullest co-operation from a succession of energetic presidents, boards of directors and women's committees, the gallery has maintained a lively and challenging program.

From the informed onlooker's point of view, gallery policy appears to have taken a broad, objective path with interesting excursions to right and left and to have maintained a healthy Canadianism, without prejudice or extremes in any direction being allowed to overshadow the whole.

To celebrate this abundant decade, on Nov. 9, the Gallery will open its major exhibition of the year, a survey of the arts of the 18th century, entitled "From the Age of Elegance."

The exhibition will be formally opened by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, at a special evening reception for Gallery members.

FROM U.S., CANADA

Valuable paintings, drawings and tapestries have been loaned for the show by public and private galleries in Canada and New York. In addition, Victoria collectors are lending a number of art objects, ranging from furniture and silver to porcelain and decorative items.

Among great 18th century artists included in the show are Capaletto, Guardi, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Hogarth, Raeburn, Zaccarelli, Lawrence and Romney.

This exhibition which has been made possible by a Canada Council grant will continue through to Dec. 3.

An error in the Times report of the recent Art Gallery annual meeting named Cmdr. P. Fairfull as retiring president. The retiring—now immediate past president—is Dr. Robert Stark, who had completed a two-year term in the office. Cmdr. Fairfull, however, was a former president.

BEHIND THE BY-LINE

About 10 years ago, it became apparent television was about to change the face of the entertainment industry and the home habits of millions.

It was then that Phil Lee was tapped for the combined post of TV and motion picture editor of the Victoria Daily Times—a logical combination, as among other developments could be seen a battle between the two which did, indeed, develop inexorably.

At the time he accepted the assignment, TV Lee—as he is now known — was telegraph editor of the Times, a post for which he qualified with a sound background of desk training on the prairie newspaper giant, the Winnipeg Free Press.

He brought to his new job the meticulous mind of a man trained on the news desk—an error in his TV listings is an extreme rarity—plus a lively imagination which thrives on the stimulation of good writing, good acting, good production, good direction.

It cannot be said that all of the millions of feet of film and countless hours of television he's watched since have qualified for the adjective "good."

But TV Lee tries conscientiously to provide a guide to the better things on screen and picture tube, and so far has managed to retain his sanity and a writing style notable for clarity and thoroughness.

He also has managed to prevent the TV set from dominating the lives of his daughters—age 14, 8, and 6—possibly due to a quarterdeck manner left over from RCN duties in wartime.

Winter Recital Series Planned for Cathedral

Opening the 1961-62 winter series of recitals at Christ Church Cathedral next Wednesday evening, will be an outstanding Victoria singer, bass-baritone Stanley Martin.

Mr. Martin, who has been away from the concert platform for some months, due to illness, is back in top form and will sing three groups of sacred numbers on the program which he will share with cathedral organist Richard Proudman.

Three arias from Mendelssohn's "Elijah," "It is enough," "Lord God of Abraham" and "Is not His word like a fire," will be vocal highlights of the evening. Mr. Martin will also sing two songs by van der Water, "The Publican" and "The Penitent."

Mr. Proudman will play Purcell's "Trumpet Tune," a chorale prelude by Bach and the "St. Anne" Fugue in E flat and several other numbers, including Gordon Jacob's "Festal Flourish."

On the following Wednesday, November 15, a second concert in the series will present Dr. C. Harold Einecke, newly appointed organist and choir-master at the Cathedral of St. John, Spokane.

Dr. Einecke will appear here under joint sponsorship of Christ Church Cathedral and the Victoria Branch of the Royal Canadian College of Organists.

A well known Pacific Coast recitalist, choral conductor and lecturer in sacred music, he has been selected for his program here, "Cathedral" Prelude and Fugue in E minor, Healey Willan's "Fanfare," and an exciting Tevetea "In Babylon," by Richard Purvis.

In December the cathedral will be the scene of a performance of Handel's Messiah by the Victoria Choral Society, conducted by Rodney Webster.

Soloists on this occasion will be Anne Harris, Eleanor Ashford, Peter Yelland, and Stanley Martin. Accompaniment will be provided by Mr. Proudman at the organ.

A unique form of recital is planned for Jan. 20 when the 100-year-old gallery organ will be demonstrated for a special meeting of the RCOO as well as the general public.

The little organ will be featured, first by itself with Catherine Shore presenting a

MINIATURE MASTERPIECE

Operatic Farce Begins Rehearsal

Giacomo Puccini was a master of operatic composition who had already written the great, tragic operas "Bohème," "Tosca," "Butterfly"—when in 1916-17 he composed his set of three miniatures, "Suor Angelica," "Il barbo" and "Gianni Schicchi."

Of these three, first produced in 1918, "Schicchi" (pronounced Skee-kee) is his only farce opera, was an instantaneous success.

This hour-long contribution to the highest ranks of opera buffa is more than ever today, regarded as a masterpiece of Puccini's art.

It is satirical, hilarious, fast-paced and full of clever, bewitching and melodious music.

"Gianni" is this year's choice of Victoria Musical Art Society directors for a three, and possibly four-night production at Oak Bay Junior High School. Exact dates are Jan. 22, 23, 24 and tentatively 25.

Audrey Johnson will stage the opera with Capt. Jim Gay

... first of series

As music director, Maurice Johnson will design the stage set and lighting and act as technical producer.

An outstanding cast, including one or two singers new to Victoria, is now launched on a tight rehearsal schedule. Still to be cast is the part of a child which could be sung by either a girl or a boy soprano.

Title role of Gianni will be sung by John Dunbar. His daughter, Lauretta, by lyric soprano Erica Kurth. Others are Eleanor Duff, Adele Gault, Peggy Walton Packard, Michael Rogers, Norman Tyrrell, Ellis Todd, Hans Steffen, Lincoln Painter, Anthony Wilkins, Sandy Kirk, Michael Rose and L. L. Grieg.

Met Auditions To Be Held In January

National Council of the Metropolitan Opera (Northwest Regional Auditions) has appointed Times music critic, Mrs. Audrey Johnson as area representative for Victoria and the Lower Island.

District auditions for singers in all categories will be held in Vancouver sometime between January 2 and 21 with regional finals scheduled for Jan. 28 in Seattle.

Details of regulations governing the auditions will be announced shortly.

DRESSY HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A dress originally made for a German countess and insured by Columbia for $4,500 is worn by co-star Audrey Dalton in William Castle's "Sardonicus."

Featuring such world-renowned artists as: Carmen Dragon, Whitmore & Lowe, Roger Wagner Choral, Leonard Pennario, The Hollywood Bowl Symphony, Eileen Kurlitz, Leopold Stokowski, Nathan Milstein, Laurindo Almeida, Robert Irving.

(BB PLUS) "TAMMY TELL ME TRUE" (Capitol)—Universal-International's tale about a backwoods girl who floats her shantyboat down stream to Seminola College in a valiant effort to become "educated" is preposterously unbelievable.

But it is also warm and jolly as being kissed under the mistletoe in the middle of July.

In short, "Tammy Tell Me True" is meant for the entire family plus the squares, the naive, the unsophisticated, the happy eives and Rudolph the red nose reindeer—in which group I proudly count myself.

Three ingredients cause the 97-minute comedy-drama to reach this happy state. First of all there is winsome Sandra Dee, a young woman who looks as though she has a long and illustrious career ahead of her should she want it.

As Tammy she is warm-hearted, wide-eyed and seemingly a combination of Pollyanna, Jo of Little Women, Tess of the Storm Country, Pandora, Wendy of Peter Pan, Goldilocks and any other assortment of naughty-nice little girls dreamed up over the long years.

Secondly there is Sandra's support in Beulah Bondi, a rich old biddy with a hidden heart of gold; Virginia Grey as the understanding Dean of Women, Julia Meade as the conniving niece who would send Beulah to a mental institution and John Gavin as Tammy's admirer.

Thirdly there is director Harry Keller who knows how to weave such flimsy, sugar-spun candy material into something strangely palatable and satisfying.

Artists' Promise Not Yet Realized

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Two lovely and charming young women visited this city Friday night, and in an hour-and-a-half joint vocal and piano recital revealed an abundance of talent that was almost as decorative to the concert platform as was their physical presence.

I say "almost" because if their performances had been as poised, graceful and winning as their manners, they would have been a most exciting pair of young artists.

Vocalist Iris Bala, who is from Windsor, Ont., and pianist Margaret Clairmont of Ottawa, appeared in Victoria under the sponsorship of the B.C. Registered Music Teachers' Association; their tour of the western provinces, which brought them to the coast is the current one in the Young Artists' Series arranged by the Canadian Federation of Music Teachers' Associations.

Miss Clairmont proved to be a confident and well-schooled pianist. She possesses a considerable technique but, as yet, a somewhat limited imagination.

Vitality and close attention to detail compensate to some extent. The Chopin F Major Ballade, for example was quite successful because of these attributes. It had scintillating moments and powerfully built climaxes.

But Miss Clairmont needs to use this technical prowess, these forces of which she has such really good command, to give free access to imagination and to color her work more subtly and with a deeper glow.

If she had been able to do this, her Schumann—the E-flat Scherzino aus Wien—would have emerged less an exercise in types of declamation and more a vivid pattern of moods and scenes.

Surely it is an error to program Miss Bala as a soprano. Her voice has—and, I think too cultivated—so the dark throatiness of the traditional contralto but her range is certainly mezzo soprano.

This is a potentially lovely voice. Its natural timbre, when it is allowed to come forth, is rich and full. She sings with a sense of poetry but her tone is not free, nor uniform in placement.

The poetic beauty of her Brahms group, though temperamentally understood, was inhibited by the self-conscious business of producing tone.

The "Carmen" Seguidilla suited her in many ways, but here again one was disturbed by notes that seemed to originate in the back of the throat and then gave way to sudden onslaughts of head resonance.

My feeling is that Miss Bala needs to make up her mind what sort of voice she can use to best advantage, and then get down to smoothing and unifying the production.

Unless she can do this a lot of good artistry is going to be wasted.

LOOSE LEAVES . . . With entries closing Feb. 12, tentative entrants for Greater Victoria Music Festival classes can take advantage of an early appearance at the 1962 official syllabus to give themselves comfortable time for consideration of the various categories open to them.

The syllabus came off the press this week and is now available at city music stores. Dates for the 1962 festival are April 2 to 6 and 9 to 13.

A total of 260 classes are listed. Particularly noteworthy are three new categories; a Junior Ilder, 19 to 21 years, in addition to the regular open Ilder class, and two separate classes for previous Rose Bowl winners and previous City of Victoria Medallion winners.

The Family Ensemble class which was one of the highlights of last spring's festival is back and let us hope will be as well favored with entries as on the last occasion.

Castings for forthcoming productions have been announced this week. For Victoria Theatre Guild's share of the "Duo" program being presented at Oak Bay Junior High School at the end of this month, "Family Album" is being directed by Lesley Allen and has the following cast: Ken Bostock, Michael Rose, Gerald Guest, John Gault, Don Jacobs, Margaret Hall, Peggy Gosley, Vanessa Lax and Helen Peaker.

"Trial by Jury," the Gilbert and Sullivan Society offering on the same bill, has Norman Tyrrell, Margaret Thompson Dean, Ellis Todd, Jim Mead, Robbins, Hans Steffen and Algis Kynas as principals.

January will be production month for the St. Matthias Little Theatre Society's next major production. The play is the Irish classic, "Juno and the Paycock," the director Vera Treuman.

BEST OF PAVEMENT-POUNDERS

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

Shortly before 4 p.m. Friday, assorted members of Victoria High School band gathered in the outdoor stands hard by the cinder track. They didn't look highly elated. It wasn't exactly bikini weather.

A crisp wind blew up their instruments, through their coats and into their ears. Ultimately they huffed and puffed and oomphed and the annual insanity known as the Canadian Legion fall distance races were officially declared open.

The noise was the signal for the competitors to appear for the junior, intermediate and senior races. Out they came, large and small, husky and scrawny, shivering and shaking.

A few onlookers gasped as three or four tykes, no larger than overgrown gnats, warmed up.

Investigation disclosed they were all 13, all in Grade 8, all from Milnes Landing.

Their coach, George Witham, a former walkathoner of note, watched them concernedly and said: "They won't win anything today. But now's the time to start them. Not when they're 16 or 17."

Wrist Broken, But He Wanted to Run

He pointed to a spindly-legged youngster with a cast on his left arm. "See that boy? Shouldn't be out there really. Has a broken wrist. He wanted to run so badly he went to see the vice-principal."

Gordon Hartley, the meet director, called them together, gave them instructions. "You start on the track, go out the gate, follow the pace car, and good luck."

Selecting a race to follow posed a problem. The juniors lacked form. The intermediate hunt appeared to be a piece of cake for Jeremy Long, Shawnigan Lake's answer to Paavo Nurmi.

The senior peanut chase, said Hartley, might be the most exhilarating. John Cliff was in it. So were Ron Gunter and Eric Henry.

Since it seemed pointless to watch only the start and finish, a ride was secured in the seniors' pace car.

The gun went and the seniors did their lap and headed down North Park Street. After they had gone a quarter-mile, closely bunched, a boy with an Iroquois haircut, white shirt and shorts, galloped easily into the lead.

"Who's that?" asked a passenger. "John Cliff," said the driver.

Just then a truck, unaware that a race was in progress, came whistling in the direction of the runners. Its driver turned pale. Cliff, phlegmatic as a Sphinx, altered course slightly and widened his lead.

Somehow He Survived Traffic Crush

"This happen often?" the passenger asked. "You haven't seen anything yet," said the driver. "Wait until we hit Richmond and the homebound-bound traffic." At least, thought the passenger, Jubilee Hospital is close by. They won't have far to carry the pieces.

Cliff turned onto Richmond. By this time the race was all his. The only things in his way were a B.C. Electric bus and several autos, mobile and stationary.

Somehow he missed crashing head-on into them and wheeled left onto Bay. The passenger had long since abandoned note-taking, replacing it with deep prayer and meditation on why anybody would want to challenge tons of steel while on foot.

A look out the back window revealed that none of the field was in sight. Either they had too much of Mr. Cliff or were even at this moment en route to the morgue.

Cliff pulled a handkerchief out of his shorts, blew his nose, and yelled to the pace car: "Turn up Chambers!" The driver nodded.

Up he went, going as casually as if he was bound for a loaf of bread at the corner store. He turned onto the track, did his lap, crossed the finish line, and disappeared under the stands. Time for the 3 1/2 miles: 15:10.2. Good? Last year the peerless John Vallant won in 16:16.

Runs Six Miles to School Each Day

A minute and 25 seconds later, Gunter and Henry entered the scene, lifting lead feet and sadly in need of a horse. The rest of the pack ultimately drifted in, studies in exhaustion and fatigue.

"Nothing to it for John," a boy said. "Ran 10 miles yesterday and six today before the race."

That true? Cliff was asked. "Yes," said Cliff, a first-year arts student at Victoria University. "I run 6 1/2 miles to school every day. Oh, and once a week I run the sandhill at Mount Douglas. You know, the one the motorcycles use."

Major Bob Love, Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion, made a meaningful, brief speech commending the winners and lauding the losers.

The winners were photographed with their cups. Hartley came over to tell Cliff the large trophy was his for a year "but the small one is yours to keep."

Cliff fondled the large cup, then handed it back to Hartley. "Keep it in the school, will you, please?" he asked.

Then he picked up his German textbook, his small trophy, and began to lope away.

"He didn't want to carry the big one because he's going to run all the way home," a boy said.

Hartley smiled. "Johnny loves to run," he said.

NANAIMO — Sweeping changes in administration were forecast by Bill McFarlane Friday following his election for a second straight term as president of the Nanaimo lacrosse club.

Junior Team Plays Nov. 14

Esquimalt Bruins, the district's new—and only—junior "A" hockey team, will be unveiled at the Sports Centre on Nov. 14.

Coach Joe Iannarelli said to-day the Bruins have arranged a home-and-home exhibition series with Nanaimo Juniors. Second game will be played in Nanaimo on Nov. 14.

All players trying out for the team are reminded of a workout Sunday, starting at 11 a.m.

Long Run for Win

BOSTON (AP) — Halfback Ron Burton raced 91 yards down the sidelines on a kick-off runback in the third quarter Friday night to give Boston Patriots a 28-21 American Football League victory over Dallas Texans.

AAU Singles Out Vancouver Stars

EDMONTON (CP)—Sprinter Harry Jerome Friday was nominated by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada for the Lou E. Marsh Trophy, awarded annually to Canada's outstanding amateur or professional athlete.

Jerome, the only man in history ever to hold both the 100-meter and 100-yard world records at the same time, also was awarded the J. W. Davies Trophy for the second straight year. It is awarded annually to Canada's outstanding amateur track and field athlete.

Mary Stewart, 15-year-old Vancouver high school student

MOST VALUABLE Player in Eastern Football Conference was honor bestowed on Montreal tackle Bobby Jack Oliver Friday. Alouettes' star line-backer won out over other performers as Don Clark of Montreal, halfbacks Dick Shatto and Jim Rountree of Toronto, and Hamilton's Bernie Faloney.

AMATEUR SPORTS

Help Required To Lift Status

EDMONTON (CP)—The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada will be asked to approve a long-range program to lift the status of amateur sports in Canada with the aid of federal funds.

The union's finance committee will put before delegates a resolution submitted by Dave Mathews of Vancouver, president of the British Columbia branch. It seeks federal help and implementation of a program to develop amateur athletics on a home front and gain improved results in international competition. Mathews said in an interview Friday night the resolution "calls for federal assistance of up to $1,000,000 over a four-year period, not more than $250,000 in any one year."

It is designed to promote national coaching, assist junior development, expand and make sure of current facilities and assist in underwriting costs of Canadian athletics competing at home and abroad.

SEEKS OTTAWA LOBBYIST

At its last session, Parliament passed legislation aimed at promoting physical fitness and amateur sport through grants of $5,000,000 a year.

The finance committee will bid for general session approval to place an AAU representative in Ottawa to lobby for AAU requests. The man would be armed with statistical and financial information to support requests for money from the federal government in the staging of AAU programs.

Friday, the AAU granted affiliation to four organizations, completing its most extensive expansion program in modern history. Official acceptance of affiliation bids from the Canadian National Exhibition, the Pacific National Exhibition, the Canadian Amateur Speed Skating Association and the Royal Canadian Legion was given at the union's 68th annual meeting.

Never before in recent years has the AAU granted affiliation to more than one group in a single year. Affiliation with the Royal Canadian Legion was the key move, giving the AAU direct association with 230,000 Legion members throughout Canada. Affiliation with the CNE and PNE is the first involving commercial organizations, said Ken Twigg of Toronto, national AAU track and field chairman.

FIRST PLACE AT STAKE IN PUCK LOOP TONIGHT

First "crucial" game of the young Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League season goes on stage tonight at Memorial Arena.

Nanaimo and Independent Athletic Association, both unbeaten to date, clash at 9 in the feature game of tonight's twin bill. Opening the evening's activity at 7:30 will be a game between Navy and Port Alberni.

Nanaimo has won two games and tied one while IAA has two straight wins. Tonight's winner will take over first place in the standings, which will be computed on a percentage basis since Nanaimo will play more games than other clubs during the season.

Other award winners were: Viscount Alexander Trophy to the outstanding junior athlete—Bruce Kidd, Toronto; Frederick N. A. Rowell Trophy for the outstanding field athlete of the year—Dave Steen, Vancouver; BELIEVES BRUINS ...

Watson Has a Funny Feeling

By The Canadian Press Coach Phil Watson eyes the future with optimism now that his Boston Bruins have overcome early-season miseries. "The whole team, especially the eight rookies, are starting to jell," says fiery Phil in explaining Boston's stunning reversal of form.

The Bruins, after yielding 47 goals in salvaging only one tie in their first eight National Hockey League starts, now have a three-game undefeated streak on two wins and a tie. "Not bad, eh? Not bad," says Watson. "By Christmas we won't be too badly off and you know I've got a funny feeling we're going to make the playoffs."

The amazing thing about the Bruins is that they are only one point behind the fifth-place Chicago Black Hawks and three points shy of fourth place, now occupied by Detroit Red Wings.

Riggin's Back in Form And Flyers Are Tough

Edmonton Streak at Seven; Duke's Tally Sinks Totems

As long as goalie Dennis Riggin continues his spectacular acrobatics in the Edmonton nets, the Flyers are going to be tough to knock off their perch as the only unbeaten club in professional hockey.

The veteran Riggin, who was below his previous form last season after suffering a serious eye injury the previous year, and Vancouver's Dave Duke provided the highlights Friday night as the Flyers and Canucks chalked up Western Hockey League victories.

Riggin was sensational as the unbeaten Edmonton Flyers extended their winning streak to seven straight with a 4-1 victory over Calgary Stampeders before an Edmonton crowd of 4,243 fans.

The 25-year-old thin man from Kincardine, Ont., was robbed of a shutout, which would have been his second, by Ron Leopold's 55-foot slap shot at the three-quarter mark of the third period.

Riggin blocked 45 shots and was especially brilliant in the second and third periods, stopping 18 in each as the Stampeders staged an almost-continuous power play.

The Edmonton goals were scored by Chuck Holmes, Don Poile, Ed Joyal and Roger DeJordy.

Duke scored the winning goal with 49 seconds remaining at Vancouver to give Canucks a 3-2 win over Seattle Totems before 1,930 fans.

Duke took a pass from defenceman Emile Gilles, and faked Totem rookie defenceman Dunc McCallum out of position before connecting on a 15-foot shot.

OUT OF CELLAR

Victory—moved Vancouver out of the Northern Division cellar and into third place ahead of Calgary. Seattle remained in second place.

Other Vancouver goals were scored in the first period by Duke and Bob McCusker.

Veterans Don Chitupka and Bill MacFarland answered for Seattle.

TOUCHED OFF BATTLE

Play had to be halted at 11:45 of the final period when Vancouver's Mike Kardash and Seattle's Don Bamburak touched off a battle that involved all players on the ice except the goaltenders. Referee Scotty Morrison handed out major penalties to Kardash and Bamburak.

The only casualty of the battle was Seattle forward Gerry Leonard who suffered a cut hand.

KUBEK CALLED

Army Decides Hornung's Fit

NEW YORK (AP)—Green Bay halfback Paul Hornung, the National Football League's leading scorer, and shortstop Tony Kubek of baseball's world champion New York Yankees were added today to the mushrooming list of professional athletes summoned for military duty in the United States defence build-up.

Hornung has been declared fit for army service after extensive physical examinations, and ordered to report for military service Nov. 14. That will allow him to play two more games for the Western Conference-leading Packers, already hard hit, by the call-up of linebacker Ray Nitschke and the impending loss of flanker Boyd Dowler.

Among them are Cleveland Browns' halfback Bobby Mitchell and tackle Dick Schacht, San Francisco 49ers' lineman Mike Magac, St. Louis Cardinal linemen Ernie McMillan and Bob Demarcio, San Diego Chargers tackle Ron Mix and Buffalo Bills quarterback Richie Lucas.

Meanwhile, Kubek, married only two weeks, was called for a one-year stint. He joins such first-line baseball players as Baltimore pitcher Steve Barber and shortstop Ron Hansen, Cleveland hurlers Jim Grant and Wynn Hawkins, Chicago Cubs catcher Dick Bertell and Philadelphia Phils shortstop Ruben Amaro.

Hornung heads an imposing list of pro football standouts affected by reactivation of reserve units.

Hornung disclosed Friday he had been declared physically unfit after his first army examination Oct. 25. The former Notre Dame great has been bothered by a pinched nerve in his neck.

Meaning, Kubek, married only two weeks, was called for a one-year stint. He joins such first-line baseball players as Baltimore pitcher Steve Barber and shortstop Ron Hansen, Cleveland hurlers Jim Grant and Wynn Hawkins, Chicago Cubs catcher Dick Bertell and Philadelphia Phils shortstop Ruben Amaro.

GLEN LAKE CLUB HOSTS TROJAN GRID BANTAMS

Glen Lake Roughriders, who are included in plans for a bantam division Canadian football league next season, bite off their first taste of mainland opposition Sunday.

Roughriders, who have played three exhibition games this season, face Vancouver Trojans at Luxton's Centennial Park in a game starting at 2.30.

Roughies, Victoria Vampires, Nanaimo and perhaps one other club are slated to campaign in a Vancouver Island bantam loop next year. Players in bantam ranks are under 16 and may not weigh more than 145 pounds.

CURLING CUES

By MATT BALDWIN

Three-time Canadian Champion

The spectacular growth of curling on this continent, especially in the Canadian West, coincided with the discovery by the young folks that the game really had something for them.

Particularly the school kids. They came to the realization that it wasn't an old man's game, after all. The glamour of the long slide was right down their alley.

They placed an unprecedented emphasis on the slide to the frustration and dismay of most of their elders. It was a case of the slide first, curl second, and later I will explain why I believe that they are on the right track, despite the anguish of the old guard.

The sliding era, of course, hastened the introduction of legislation restricting the delivery to within the nearest hogline which is located 33 feet from the hack where the player first takes up his stones.

The ideal slide merely utilizes that full distance while maintaining perfect balance at all times. I will subsequently endeavor to pass along a few tips to help you to develop this phase of the game to a fine art, and I am certain that you will be the better curler for it.

Over the years of the Canadian championships, however, there has been a remarkable category of curlers who have used a hack delivery and the draw game with astonishing success. But it is my conviction that for the takeout game, the slide will provide for a greater degree of accuracy for hitting the broom. For it is very much like sighting down a gun-barrel when you aim at your skip's broom.

Poise, balance and concentration is demonstrated by Garnet Campbell, one of Canada's outstanding curlers, as he delivers his rock.

It is difficult to argue about weight, or delivering the rock at the precise speed to achieve your shot.

The champions of other years who delivered from the hack possessed an uncanny sense of weight, and I won't dispute it.

Still, the slide is now generally regarded as the modern way of playing the game, though definitely not a necessity that everybody should use this style.

The "draw" is ideal for social games, especially when the years begin to take their toll and your limbs are not as supple as they were in your heyday.

More than anything else, though, it was the slide that was the greatest single factor in the awakening of the country's youth to the fact that here was a game worthy of their interest and patronage.

It meant growing pains for the sport, but the game is the better for the fresh, young blood.

Battle for Top Spot Goes Down to Wire

Playoffs notwithstanding, Farmers' Construction gets one final chance to throw a roadblock at Vampires' unbeaten march through the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League.

Victoria's cross-town rivals help haul down the curtain on the regular schedule at Carnarvon Park Sunday. Nanaimo Redmen will visit Campbell River Raiders in Sunday's other game. Teams start their tango at 2 p.m.

League playoffs, matching the first-place club against the fourth-place finishers and the second against the third, will get under way with sudden-death semifinals on Nov. 12. The two-game, total-point final series is slated to be played Nov. 19 and 26.

CHIEFS FINALLY LOSE

Viking Shutout Tightens Race

Pat Cain and Jim Galbraith pulled the strings Friday night, and the Esquimalt Amateur Hockey League race today looks like a fat lady's girdle feels tight.

Cain, one-time Navy goaltender, kept the cage neat and Galbraith supplied the game's only goal as Victoria College Vikings blanked Navy 10 to 0 at the Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Viking's victory combined with Army's 4-1 conquest of the previously unbeaten Pontiac Chiefs created a three-way tie for first place.

Cain made 15 stops compared to the 12 handled by rival Bill Moore in a game marred by 14 penalties.

In contrast, the Chiefs-Army contest saw only three penalties handed out. None, however, figured in the scoring.

The much-improved Army team completely dominated the game against Chiefs, outshooting Esquimalt's entry 30-10. A late, third-period goal by Les Corby spoiled Ken Villiger's shutout hopes.

Fred Bridges, Joe Clawthorpe, John O'Neill and Cal Kemp fired Army's goals.

Tina Heading Toward Badminton Greatness

Is Tina Barinaga headed for badminton immortality?

Reaching that goal is a big assignment for anybody, let alone a 14-year-old, but there are those who insist the young Port Angeles miss is destined to stand on the pedestal of greatness.

Tina, who started slammung shuttlecocks when the Port Angeles Junior Badminton Club was organized seven years ago, seems well on her way to top ranking.

At 14, she holds the under-15 U.S. national singles title; the Oregon State women's crown and, with Caroline Jensen, shares the under-15 U.S. girls' doubles championship.

With Dean Carrell, another Port Angeles standout, she also shares the under-18 U.S. mixed doubles title.

Vic Pitruka, chairman of the U.S. junior committee, claims Tina has the most outstanding potential of any woman player in the U.S.

On Friday, Miss Barinaga showed why the experts praise her so highly. Teaming with Miss Jensen, Tina made the game look easy as they defeated Mary Tucker and Jo Crampton 15-4, 15-2 in doubles play at the sixth annual invitational tournament at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club.

The tournament continues today and winds up with finals in all events Sunday.

A 10-YEAR-OLD'S ADVICE TO MOTORISTS:

"My Responsibility as a Automobile Driver"

When I get older and start to drive a car I will first study the road and driving rules. If I live here I will make sure I know all the local rules and laws. If I live some other place I will learn those rules. All the time I am driving I will remember to be as polite and nice as I can. I will not get mad at other drivers and then I will not be so likely to have accidents.

Roads are slippery when it is raining or snowing so that I will have to drive more carefully in bad weather. There is no need to drive to the full speed limit on highways if for any reason I feel uneasy. So that if I am very tired or have a full car or if it is dark I will drive a little less than the rules allow.

At regular times I will check the car I am driving to make sure it is good. The garage man will make sure my brakes are in good shape. We will make sure the lights and horn are working and that the tires are strong. In this way I will not be so likely to get into trouble on the road.

Whenever I am driving the car I will be thinking about not hurting anyone. Children are people I will always watch for because they forget to look out for themselves. Old people are forgetful too and they cannot hurry across the street.

I will always remember that I must not do damage to property like bumping into people's houses or light posts or other cars.

In case I make a mistake and bash something I will never drive without insurance so I can pay for what I break."

Vital Trade Problems Get Airing

NEW YORK (AP) — The government and a big segment of business directed sharp attention to the vital problems of foreign trade this week.

More than 2,000 business men engaged in international commerce gathered here for the National Foreign Trade Convention.

They heard the Kennedy administration advocate a foreign economic policy of open competitive trading for the entire non-Communist world. And they voiced demands that the U.S. act to eliminate foreign restrictions against its exporters.

On the domestic scene major interest was centred on the automobile industry, where the United Auto Workers Union and Chrysler Corp. feuded on the brink of a strike until settlement was achieved Thursday.

The administration's proposal for a new international trade policy was outlined by George W. Ball, under-secretary of state for economic affairs, in a speech to the Foreign Trade Convention.

WANT MORE POWER

He said the president should be given power to make "much broader and more ambitious bargains on behalf of United States industry." And he added there must be a basis for an open trading world extending beyond the European Common Market.

Overtime operations by General Motors and Ford, cutting up after the strike shut-downs, kept auto production at a high level this week. Output was estimated at 132,000 passenger cars, second this year only to last week's 159,136.

Steel output last week posted an increase after three weekly declines. The total of 2,057,000 tons was 0.7 per cent above the previous week. This brought the total for the year to 78,721,000 tons, down 8.3 per cent from the comparable 1960 period.

A flood of corporate earnings reports gushed from directors' meetings. Profits exceeded those of the 1960 third quarter, showing the results of recovery from the recession. But results were spotty.

Among companies reporting were two of the biggest in the U.S.—Ford and U.S. Steel. Ford announced earnings of $79,500,000, highest since the firm became publicly owned in 1956. U.S. Steel's profit inched downward to $51,700,000 from $52,400,000 in the 1960 third quarter.

New Financing Plan By Canadian Dyno

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian Dyno Mines Ltd. says in its annual report for the year ended July 31 that it plans to secure a bank loan to redeem all its 6 per cent first mortgage sinking fund bonds outstanding at the earliest possible date.

The bonds, dated May 1, 1957, and due May 1, 1963, originally totalled $5,500,000 and at July 31, $5,203,500 was outstanding.

Net profit on the year's operations was $535,184.

Trans Mountain Deliveries Up

VANCOUVER (CP)—Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line Company reports total deliveries of crude oil for the month of October averaged 166,632 barrels a day, compared with 105,677 barrels a day during the same period in 1960.

Deliveries through the system for the month of November are expected to average 187,000 barrels daily.

Israel Oil Search By Canadian Firm

OTTAWA (UPI)—An Ottawa company has announced plans for a $4 million project to locate and develop offshore oil deposits in Israel.

Gordon L. Hirschhorn, president of Sapana Ltd., said his company, under an agreement with the Israeli government, will begin operations in May, 1962, on a two-part project that will cover 1,000 square miles of the eastern Mediterranean.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Imperial Oil Decision Boosts Public Coffers

By GORDON BELL

Times Business Editor

Imperial Oil's decision to buy B.C. crude via Western Pacific Pipe Line early in 1962 will have a profound effect upon the petroleum industry in this province.

In the first contract for northeastern B.C. oil, Imperial will buy 7,000 barrels daily, about a third of loco refinery requirements.

It forecasts for the first time a significant source of royalties for the public treasury.

If the other three refiners in the Vancouver area—Standard of B.C., Shell and British-American—follow the lead of Imperial and take a proportionate share of their requirements, the initial market for the oil will run about 20,000 barrels daily.

With the addition of the 3,000-barrel daily refinery at Taylor Flats, total expected output of 24,000 barrels daily early next year will be just about taken care of.

On the day when B.C.'s crude oil production reaches the 24,000-barrel mark, the provincial coffers will begin to really swell with royalty money. From the present almost negligible $500 daily the provincial take will zoom to almost $6,000 daily.

Several factors—limited ability of the Vancouver refineries to use the high sulphur content B.C. crude; reluctance of the oil companies to explore for new oil at the low wellhead price of $1.86 a barrel—argue against any rapid growth of production above the 24,000-barrel daily mark.

Even so, slow but steady gains should result from natural growth of the B.C. market for oil producers which will give the provincial revenues a steady increase on royalties starting at a base of $2.2 million yearly.

Public financing of the Western Pacific line—which will bring it the rest of the way—is not expected now until the first of the year, or about the same time the line itself is completed.

Expected to be a $20 million debenture-common share "package" deal, the bulk of the financing will likely be underwritten in New York with the Canadian end limited to what this market could absorb.

A rumor of further layoffs coming at the Kitimat plant of Aluminum Co. of Canada has been denied by both company and United Steelworkers Union officials.

The Kitimat work force was cut by about 150 when production resumed this fall after the Kemano power tunnel rock fall was repaired. The association elected V. Ben Williams president for 1961-62 and Malcolm Brown vice-president.

Executive committee included Harvey Bailey, Victoria.

CNR Income Up

MONTREAL (CP)—The CNR has reported a net operating income of $502,000 for September compared with a loss of $418,400 in September, 1960.

In the first nine months of 1961, there was a net loss of $10,619,800 compared with a net loss of $11,196,000 in the corresponding period of last year.

story going the rounds in Kitimat is that another 200 men are to be laid off after Christmas.

However, company spokesmen in Vancouver denied the rumor emphatically and said the operation was in good shape with anticipated use of Kitimat input by the new rolling mill opening in New Zealand this month expected to keep B.C. production at present levels.

The New Zealand plant which will be opened by Lord Alexander, chairman of Alcan Industries Ltd., has initial production capacity of 4,500 tons of sheet aluminum yearly.

Montreal Trust Company has released the first progress report of its Consolidated Investment Plan, established last June, which shows that the initial unit values of $10 in the equity fund and the income fund had grown to $10.56 and $10.14, respectively, at Oct. 13.

Overall capital value of the fund now exceeds $3 million.

October alone accounted for an increase of about 30 per cent in the capital value.

Largest proportion of the equity fund, 15.4 per cent, is invested in base metals with bonds and finance next at 14.7 per cent, steel 12, merchandising 9, pulp and paper 2.4, and miscellaneous 6.2.

The base metal holdings are Consolidated Mining and Smelting, 2,000 shares; Hollinger, 1,250; International Nickel, 750, and Noranda, 750.

In the income fund corporate bonds make up 75.1 per cent of the portfolio with public utilities at 12 per cent, municipalities at 6.4 and provincial and guaranteed at 6.3.

Favored among the corporates are $60,000 each in Canadian British Aluminum 5½ of '77, Brockville Chemical 6½ of '80, Trans-Canada Pipe Line 6½ of '74.

The Montreal Trust fund has no B.C. Power or B.C. Electric holdings—few other funds have that distinction to date.

Through September the tonnage has been running at a rate of about 3,000,000 tons a month compared with the original estimate of more than 4,000,000 tons.

During the period, the seaway handled 16,611,226 tons of cargo. At this rate about 23,500,000 tons can be expected to pass through the seaway before it closes, probably in early December.

This is substantially below the 33,000,000 tons predicted for 1961.

The Seaway Corporation blames shallow channels between the Great Lakes and lack of deep draft ports for much of the trouble.

Ships which have a draft of 24 to 25 feet when loaded can ply the seaway, Lake Ontario, the Welland Canal and Lake Erie. But they can go no farther because of shallower channels between Lakes Erie and Huron.

CANADIAN CONSUMER DEBT JUMPS

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians owed an estimated $3,262,000,000 at the end of August in the major fields of consumer credit, 7.8 per cent more than the $3,025,000,000 owed a year earlier, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

The largest portion was $1,371,000,000 in chartered bank personal loans, up 19.1 per cent from $1,151,000,000 a year earlier and rising steadily during the last six months.

Amounts owed sales finance companies for consumer goods slipped 5.6 per cent to $808,000,000 from $856,000,000 a year earlier and installment credit by small loans companies dropped 21.3 per cent to $37,000,000 from $47,000,000.

'Business Conditions Improved'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Telephone Co. Friday reported a general improvement in business conditions during the second and third quarters of 1961.

"The continued increase in the construction of apartments and dwelling units, general betterment of the cattle and fishing industries, and the increased production of natural gas indicates a continuing improvement in the economy of the province in the months to follow," said C. H. McLean in a third-quarter report.

The company's third-quarter interim financial statement shows that earnings per average ordinary share for the nine months ended Sept. 30 amounted to $2.29, compared to $2.26 for the corresponding period last year.

After payment of dividends on preference and preferred shares, income remaining for ordinary shares was $4,179,592. Operating revenues were up $5,060,351 and operating expenses, including depreciation and taxes, increased by $3,408,591.

U.S. Steel Sets Regular Dividend

NEW YORK (AP)—United States Steel Corp. has reported earnings of $51,800,000, equal to 84 cents a common share, for the three months ended Sept. 30.

Directors declared a dividend of 75 cents a common share, the usual quarterly amount, payable Dec. 9 to stockholders of record Nov. 10.

Industrials Head Toward New Record at Toronto

By JOHN BELANGER

Canadian Press Staff Writer

This week's stock market advanced smartly on favorable corporate news, rumors and speculative movements.

Industrials took a 12-point jump on index as the 20-stock market indicator appeared to be edging towards another record high.

The long-awaited and much-predicted western oils rise arrived with a bang. Many of the seniors—Dome, Hudson's Bay, Home A and B, and Canadian Devonian included—had marked price hikes in heavy trading. The result was a relatively large three-point index rise.

Industrials were paced by steels, with refining oils and utilities lending a big assist. Steel Company of Canada produced the biggest rise, $2.25, mainly on Wednesday's news that its profits for the third quarter more than doubled last year's figure—$8,348,814—compared with $3,754,127.

Algoma and National Steel both reached new highs during the week but later declined, while advances ranging as high as a point went to Atlas, Canada Iron Foundries, Dominion Bridge and Page-Hersey.

It was the first time in a year that the total unemployed has been below 4,000,000.

Despite the big increase in employment and drop in unemployment, the seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment compared with the civilian labor force remained at 6.8 per cent, the same level as in September.

This rate has remained practically the same for 11 consecutive months.

Develop U.S. Market Canada Told

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada should stop worrying over economic dependence on the United States and strive for more sales there, J. R. Nicholson, president of the council of forest industries of B.C., said Friday.

"It is our largest and most logical market," he told a seminar of the Vancouver Council of Women.

"It is a market which is bound to expand as the population grows. We would be most unwise not to strive earnestly and continually to develop the U.S. market."

the discovery hole has reached 1,143 feet and added that another sunk 100 feet south of this has been "bored to 450 feet."

Canadian Dyno said Wednesday that chip samples taken from a copper-bearing structure 70 miles east of James Bay showed high copper values. The stock rose 11 cents on the week, at one point touched a high of $2.95, but closed at $2.23.

DOUBLES PRICE

Satellite Mines, a hitherto unheard of copper prospect, more than doubled in price Tuesday and closed at 36, ahead 18½ cents, on a total turnover of $70,212 shares.

The senior base metals list was generally ahead in steady but unspectacular trading. International Nickel paced the group with a rise of more than two points, while fractional gains went to Labrador, Mining Corporation, Ventures and Steep Rock.

Gold trading was light with Dome and McIntyre Porcupine both off fractionally.

TRADING HEAVY

Interprovincial Pipe Lines, Trans-Canada, Trans Mountain and Texaco were strong in refining oils, the first adding 2½ to 7½, only ¼ away from its high of 80. All four traded heavily, with Trans-Canada and Mountain finishing on the weekly most-active list.

Utilities advanced, but did not show as many marked rises as did steels and oils. Bell Telephone reached a new high of 57 in heavy turnover then later declined, while fractional gains went to Shawinigan, CPR, Consumers' Gas, Union Gas and Calgary Power. Consumers' Gas was a favorite all week and turned over a large number of special-size transactions.

Speculators had another busy week.

Lake Dufault erupted for a $1.40 gain to $6.35 with volume of more than 825,000 shares as officials reported Friday that a hole drilled 100 feet east of

'Damper,' Milder' On Sunday

Weekend weather may be damp, but milder than this morning's frost-producing atmosphere in which temperatures slumped to between 26 and 36 degrees.

Tonight's overnight minimums will be between 33 and 38 and the high Sunday will be 48 with winds southeast at 15-25 miles an hour.

The present weather system is weakening, weatherman William Mackie says, with the result that Sunday will be mostly cloudy with accompanying light rain.

Although temperatures last month were colder than Friday night, the high degree of moisture in the air produced a first heavy white frost in many parts of the city.

RULES CHANGED FOR MISS VICTORIA

Big Time Chance for Nina

By HAL JONES

Victoria's Nina Holden will end her term of office as "Miss Canada" in 1962 by getting a one-in-a-million opportunity to fame and fortune.

NINA HOLDEN
...and now Miss America?

The 18-year-old beauty, who took over the Miss Canada crown in September, will represent Canada in the Atlantic City, N.J., next year.

Normally, Miss Canada is chosen in August and attends the Miss America pageant in September, but Nina, because of her late succession, missed the American pageant this year.

To give her this chance, the Miss Canada contest in 1962 will now be held after the Miss America pageant.

BUSY YEAR AHEAD

"It's wonderful," Nina's mother Mrs. E. T. Holden, 465 Foster, said today. "I'm thrilled — Nina wants me to accompany her to Atlantic City next year."

Meanwhile Nina, who is still Miss Victoria, has a busy and strenuous year ahead.

She has been invited by the Haitian ambassador to Canada to attend the Pan American Festival of Tourism which is to be held in Port au Prince during the first two weeks in December.

HERE FOR CHRISTMAS

From Haiti, she will return to Eastern Canada via New York and is due back in Victoria for the first time in three months on Dec. 19.

After a brief Yuletide recess she leaves again for the East where she starts a cross Canada tour at Kingston, Ont., in mid-January.

Also on the horizon are trips to Great Britain and the Continent.

HOSPITAL WING CEREMONY SET

A ground-breaking ceremony on the site of the new $2,623,000 wing at Royal Jubilee Hospital is planned for next Friday, hospital administrator George Masters said today.

"The date and time is still subject to confirmation," he said, "but the ceremony will be held late next week."

275 PERISHED WHEN SS PACIFIC WENT DOWN

By HUMPHRY DAVY

On a clear November afternoon, 86 years ago today, a vivacious brown-haired young woman boarded the steamship Pacific bound for San Francisco.

Fanny Palmer, 19, wearing a light grey balmoral skirt and black cord jacket with velvet cuffs, was looking forward to her first trip to the big city where she planned to stay the winter with two older sisters.

There would be dances, parties, dinners and a chance to meet many eligible young bachelors.

UNIQUE VISITOR IWO JIMA HERE FOR 2-DAY STAY

Carrier Could Fight War, Aid in Disaster

By MONTE ROBERTS

USS Iwo Jima, the spanking-new United States Navy helicopter-troop carrier which arrived at Esquimalt this morning for a two-day visit, is in the unique position of being a ship built for war with a great potential for peacetime service.

Her helicopter squadron combined with extensive medical and hospital facilities fit her ideally to lend aid to disaster areas stricken by flood, tornado, or other blow from nature.

One of her officers today pointed out the 'copter could fly rescue and medical teams to areas cut off from ground or other air assistance. Her massive sick-bay and other facilities could take care of more than 1,000 casualties, and she could be used as a transfer point to other rescue ships.

But war, of course, was primarily in mind when she was designed and built, from the keel up, as the first task force unit specializing in "vertical envelopment."

This is the concept of landing highly-trained fighting units in advantageous positions during amphibious landing operations.

She will be capable of landing up to 1,500 Marines, in nine-man platoons, via 24 helicopters, in a shuttle service taking slightly over four hours.

Officers emphasized that Iwo Jima is not a replacement of other, tried-and-tested, task force units, such as troop, transport, weapon and supply carriers.

For defence, she would depend on destroyers, cruisers and aircraft carriers attached to the task force complex.

The Iwo Jima does not bulk large in this age of super-carriers. At full load, including a full battalion of Marines, she is rated at 18,000 tons. As she entered harbor this morning, minus ammunition and with about 80 per cent fuel, she displaces about 14,000 tons.

Traveling at from 60 to 65 miles per hour on a front 150 miles wide, its projected path took it over Campbell River and Powell River, and it was reported passing over the Great Lakes region today.

If the cloud had passed over Victoria, it is expected there would have been increased traces of radioactive fallout Friday.

However, Dr. William English, assistant director of the Pacific Naval Laboratory, said the air reading for Friday was "slightly down" from that of the day before, and this morning was down even a little more.

30,000 FEET UP

The cloud, which takes from 10 to 12 hours to pass a given point, is at 30,000 feet altitude.

Spokesman for Canadian Pacific and Trans-Canada Air Lines said that since their jets fly generally at 39,000 feet, they will have to take evasive action if necessary during take-offs and landings near the cloud.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Could you please inform me who was the builder or builders of the original Blue-nose sailing schooner built in Nova Scotia? M.P.

A.—The 285-ton schooner Blue-nose was designed by W. J. Route of Halifax. She was built of entirely Nova Scotia materials (except the masts) by Smith and Rhinland at Lunenburg. She was launched on March 26, 1921.

Q.—I would like to know how to trace my family tree. M.C.

A.—A record of your ancestors in Canada would be kept by the registrars of vital statistics of the provinces in which they were born. Start with your immediate family and work backwards, using the information supplied about your grandparents by the province in which your parents were born, etc. British antecedents can be traced through the registrars at Somerset House, London, or New Register House, Edinburgh.

HEALTH PROBE GROUP HERE IN FEBRUARY

Canada's royal commission on health services will sit in Victoria next February to hear briefs from interested groups, Dr. E. C. McCoy, acting executive director, B.C. Medical Association, announced here today.

Dr. McCoy said the commission is now holding public hearings in the Maritimes and will hold similar hearings across Canada.

"Doctors, laymen and all groups interested in national health are invited to appear before the commission."

Island Princess To Be Operated In 'Another Area'

Coast Ferries Ltd. plans to put its Mv. Island Princess to work in "another area" in the vicinity of Vancouver Island, Capt. O. H. New, president, said today in Vancouver.

It will give up its Steveston-Gulf Islands service Nov. 15. The company could not afford to carry on its present service, and had offered the vessel for sale to the government.

Oak Bay to Vote On Marina Plan

Present Boathouse Due to Be Scrapped

By AB KENT

Oak Bay ratepayers probably will be asked next month to approve a 20-year lease for operation of a modern marina development at Turkey Head.

If a proposal isn't prepared by Dec. 7 election day, then a special plebiscite on the question will be presented early in the new year, Reeve George Murdoch said today.

Continued operation of Oak Bay Boathouse facilities is assured during the winter and next season, even though a modern, fully-equipped marina may start to rise within a few months.

THREE BIDS MADE

The 50-year-old former home of Royal Victoria Yacht Club is due for demolition when Oak Bay council names a successful bidder for the full-scale development of a commercial small boat facility.

Councillors are expected to deal Monday night with a recommendation by the parks committee, which received three submissions by last Monday's deadline.

They range from an offer to provide a marina for $60,000, to one proposing a million-dollar-plus development.

NO RENEWAL

The present lease on boathouse operation expires next June and will not be renewed on the existing basis.

When council has decided upon a plan for a new lease—limited by provincial statute to 20 years—ratepayers will be asked to approve the scheme next month.

If a plan is accepted, the proposer may buy out the existing lease in order to begin work on the new marina.

UNBROKEN SERVICE

Reeve Murdoch assured boat-owners today there would be continuity of operation, so that the old facilities would be kept until replaced by new ones.

He pointed out significance of the proposed development at the base of Turkey Head breakwater.

There would be moorage for about 100 small craft, a new building to house repair facilities, a restaurant, public rooms, marine sales, fuel dock, engine storage, water and power connections to floats and allied features.

TREASURY BENEFITS

In taxes alone, a completed new development of the magnitude envisaged would put at least $3,000 a year into the treasury, it is estimated.

"It will enhance the appearance of the whole area with a new building and landscaping. There will be a new view for the people across the road," Reeve Murdoch said.

When completed, the building will be a maximum 15 feet high and completely screened by greenery.

The existing boathouse rises some 30 or more feet and blanks part of the seascape from view.

AID TO BUSINESS

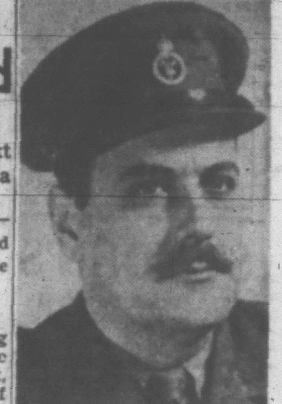

Considerable landscaping has already been done in the area by the parks department, and provision for parking of about 75 cars is under way.

The development could mean a stimulus for local business, assuming it became a popular spot for visiting boatmen.

"We are hoping first for council approval in principle, then the parks committee will continue working on the scheme. Some councillors haven't seen the plans yet," the reeve pointed out.

Whichever plan is accepted is expected to be popular.

"Anyone who is going to put in facilities is going to cater to the public needs," Reeve Murdoch said.

APPOINTED a general staff officer at the army's Target Area Headquarters in Duncan is Maj. A. G. W. Harbord-Harbord. He was formerly with the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry in Victoria.

B.C.'s Up-to-Date Red Riding Hood

By FRANK BUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Once upon a time there was a pretty young girl called Little Red Riding Hood.

Well, actually that wasn't really her name; it was B.C. Beautiful, almost as nice a name, but this is a fairy story, so she has to be called Red Riding Hood.

One day, about 1956, Little Red Riding Hood loaded her basket with goodies—like forests, and minerals, and oil, and great water resources—and set off through the woods to her grandmother's.

But on the way a Wolf spied her, and licked his lips hungrily.

The Wolf (whose real name was Wen-neg-Gren, but that isn't quite as nice a name as Wolf) stopped Little Red Riding Hood and asked where she was going.

"I'm going to my grandmother's with this lovely basket of goodies," she said.

The Wolf let her pass.

"Aha," he said to himself. "I will have those goodies, and Little Red Riding Hood, too. And I will build mills, and a railway and the biggest power dam in the world. I will make millions of dollars and give it all away to the poor people."

(He was really a very philanthropic Wolf, you see.)

So he took a short cut to grandmother's; and got there before the little girl.

He locked poor grandmother up in a closet, dressed up in her nightgown and jumped into bed.

And when Little Red Riding Hood came, she said: "Oh, Grandmother, what big eyes you have."

"All the better to see you with," replied the Wolf, because he had a great vision of all the things he would do.

"Oh, Grandmother, what big ears you have," said the little girl.

"All the better to hear you with," said Wolf, because he wanted to grant all the wishes of the people.

"Oh, Grandmother, what big teeth you have."

"All the better to eat you up with," snarled the Wolf, and he jumped out of bed and chased Little Red Riding Hood all around the room.

But fortunately a Brave Woodsman was nearby and he heard her cries for help.

He rushed in and rescued her by taking over the Peace River power project and the B.C. Electric. And he let grandmother out of the closet (who was really Dr. Gordon Shrum, and all the time he had been writing the B.C. Energy Report).

"Get out there and do an honest day's work and build that railway anyway," said the Woodsman.

(His name was really William Andrew Cecil Bennett, but Woodsman is much shorter.)

But the Wolf was lazy.

So he pleaded with the Woodsman to give him time and he would build the railway somehow.

And the Woodsman said alright, he could have just a little longer, because he was really very kind-hearted, and he even went and chopped down a tree for the railway.

And the Wolf went to the press, to show he wasn't bluffing and told them "I'll build that railway."

But nobody really believed him.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Victoria Independent Order of Foresters recently turned over a cheque for $1,000 to Greater Victoria Association for Retarded Children.

The money, raised in a bingo game, will be used to extend the association's services.

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Flame Room of the B.C. Electric Building.

Speaker will be P. W. Robertson, control engineer, B.C. Power Commission.

Vancouver Island Branch of the Hong Kong Veterans' Association of Canada will hold its annual reunion dinner to-night at 8:30 at 521 Superior.

Colonel G. Trist, former commanding officer of the Winnipeg Grenadiers will be guest speaker at this dinner which is the 16th held since the return of the prisoners of war.

Victoria Art Gallery, 1040 Moss, will hold its monthly picture-loan viewing Monday from 7:30 to 8 p.m.

Contemporary paintings by Canadian artists Stephen Lowe and Alan Collier will be on view. The public is invited, but only art gallery members can rent pictures.

Almost 200 young cadets will be guests of the ship's company of the amphibious assault ship, USS Iwo Jima, on Sunday morning.

Members of the Rainbow Royal Canadian sea cadet corps and Admiral Rayner Navy League cadet corps and Navy League wrenettes will attend church services aboard ship. Roman Catholic mass is at 8:30 a.m. and Protestant service at 10:30 a.m. Tour of the ship will follow.

A former Saanich councillor was treated for abrasions and bruises in St. Joseph's Hospital Friday after he slipped and fell at the intersection of Johnson and Douglas.

Tom Alexander, 79, of 3209 Shelbourne, was taken to hospital in the police ambulance.

The slasher is at work again.

Spencer's Dept. Store, 1420 Douglas, reported a second attack of slashed clothing in three weeks.

The first instance saw $65 worth of slacks slit in pieces. On Friday $250 worth of sports jackets and trousers were put to the knife.

The attack evidently took place Thursday evening but was only discovered Friday morning.

R. H. French was elected president of the Old Age Pensioners' Association at a recent meeting.

Mrs. Grace Sherwood was chosen first vice-president and Bert Ryall was picked second vice-president.

Other officers: Mr. G. White, secretary; Mr. A. A. Cownden, treasurer; Mr. and Mrs. J. Mitchell and Mrs. E. Aspinwall, sick visitors; and Mrs. M. Hawkins, pianist and social convener.

275 PERISHED WHEN SS PACIFIC WENT DOWN

By HUMPHRY DAVY

On a clear November afternoon, 86 years ago today, a vivacious brown-haired young woman boarded the steamship Pacific bound for San Francisco.

Fanny Palmer, 19, wearing a light grey balmoral skirt and black cord jacket with velvet cuffs, was looking forward to her first trip to the big city where she planned to stay the winter with two older sisters.

There would be dances, parties, dinners and a chance to meet many eligible young bachelors.

Friends gathered to see Fanny off. She was known as Victoria's "little princess". She was a popular young lady, not only beautiful, but a talented and accomplished musician.

The desks of the Pacific were black with passengers as the steamship sailed out of Victoria harbor.

Fanny waved a last goodbye. Two weeks later the relentless sea washed ashore, a short distance from her home, the body of the young woman.

Fanny Palmer was the victim of the worst marine disaster of the Pacific Northwest coast.

More than 275 lives were lost. The Pacific collided off Cape Flattery with the Orpheus, a sailing vessel bound from San Francisco to Nanaimo for coal.

The impact was slight—a glancing blow—yet was too much for the aging Pacific.

She filled and sank in a few moments, carrying to death all on board, with the exception of two persons—Neil Henley, a Scots-born quartermaster, and Henry F. Jelly, passenger.

The Orpheus continued her course without making an effort to save those on the steamer.

The skipper of the Orpheus, Capt. Charles A. Sawyer, told a court of inquiry in San Francisco he never heard the cries for help and was unaware the steamer was sinking.

The Orpheus crew, however, all claimed they heard the cries. The wheelman testified he was ordered to keep his course.

The court of inquiry dismissed the evidence of the seamen on the grounds they hated their captain and were prejudiced.

87th Anniversary Marked

The Church of Our Lord, that familiar grey-walled building on the corner of Humboldt and Blanshard, will celebrate its 87th anniversary Sunday.

Bishop D. A. G. Rankin will mark the church's long years of service to Victoria in two messages: "Our Time Tested Faith" at 11 a.m., and "Spiritual Birthday" at 7:30 p.m.

"All Christians today must present a united witness to a divided world," he says.

Special anniversary music will be played at the organ by J. Ingram Smith.

Dr. Douglas Alcorn will speak on "Liberal Religions of Japan" at the Unitarian Fellowship of Victoria in the Mount Tolmie social hall, corner of Richmond and Cedar Hill Cross Road, Sunday at 8 p.m.

There will be a friendship hour from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Christ Church Cathedral is all set for a big parish "visitation" this Sunday. Right after Matins there will be a meeting of team captains and team members in the Memorial Hall and a briefing by Dr. Frank Falvey, general organizer.

The following Sunday, Nov. 12, all are invited to a parish tea party in the Empress Hotel from 3 to 5 p.m.

In First Baptist Church Sunday morning, Rev. G. R.

Easter will take for his subject "The Courage of Heaven". Solist will be John Bray and the morning service will be broadcast over CKDA. The Lord's Supper and reception of members will take place during this service.

In the evening the subject of the meditation will be "The Tragedy of Misunderstanding."

"The Trowel and the Sword" will be the subject of Rev. A. I. Higgins at 9:30 and 11 a.m. in First United Church Sunday.

The sacrament of baptism will be administered at the 11 a.m. service.

Installation of officers of the Young Peoples' Union will be part of the evening service at 7:30 p.m. when Rev. Stanley Sears will preach on "The Plus Sign."

"When God Shakes Down the Stars" will be the subject of a sermon by Canon George Biddle at St. John's Anglican Church Sunday evening.

In the morning his topic will be "Light at Our Wits' End."

The need for spiritual discernment will be emphasized this Sunday at Victoria's Christian Science Church.

Rev. Emma Smiley will speak on "The Sabbath Was Made for Man" at the morning service in Victoria Truth Centre and "Doers of the Impossible" at the evening communion.

Multitude Hails Pope on Birthday

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Tens of thousands of people loudly acclaimed the Pope today as he was carried shoulder high on his portable throne into Saint Peter's Basilica for a solemn service marking his third coronation anniversary and 80th birthday.

Silver trumpets heralded his entry in procession with the papal march.

The Pope's 80th birthday falls on Nov. 25, but its observance was combined with the celebration of his coronation anniversary.

COUNCIL OF CHURCHES

Non-Christian Land Chosen for Meeting

TORONTO (CP)—Why should the World Council of Churches meet in India, a land of 438,000,000 people where only one in 50 is Christian?

Part of the answer is geographical. The first assembly was held at Amsterdam, the second in 1954 in North America Evanston, Ill. Asia was obviously the third meeting place.

The younger churches in Asia need to be encouraged by the fellowship they will gain by the visit of leaders from Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox communions from around the world.

Asia is a continent where some of the great experiments in Christian unity are taking place, two of them in India. Canadian churches are involved in united churches in north and south India. Unity is one of the themes of the third assembly, opening Nov. 19.

Any answer to the question must underline the fact that Christianity is a minority faith in the world, and its witness at this time will be on a continent where resurgence of religion is evident. In New Delhi the Christian churches will have an opportunity unparalleled in history, that of presenting a united Christian witness in the capital of a predominantly non-Christian country.

What is the World Council of Churches? It is a working fellowship in which Christians recognize one another and listen together to what God is saying to His people. It is a

J. W. Wray, pastor, Mr. and Mrs. Knapp have established five Bible schools and 60 outstations in the foreign mission field.

Protestant 'Warm Up' In Spain

MADRID (AP)—Spanish Protestants report they are finding their lives a little easier these days in this officially Roman Catholic country.

Leaders of several Protestant groups find more and more signs of tolerance from Spanish officials, although many barriers to free exercise of choice of religion remain firmly in place.

Generally, Protestants here credit two factors.

The first was the attitude of Pope John, who publicly has expressed sympathy for Christians of all types. The second was the visit to the Vatican of Britain's Archbishop of Canterbury. This received a good press in Spain.

Best estimates are that there are 25,000 Spanish Protestants in this nation of 30,000,000.

Their leaders say the slight "warming up" has extended even to Spanish government officials once inflexible in their attitude toward Protestants.

Dance Band to College Professor

By PAT DUFOUR

Students at Victoria College who find it difficult to decide on a career will take heart when they meet Miss Ann Saddlemeyer, teacher of English of the modern period.

In a conversation that moved as rapidly as quicksilver, the 28-year-old mentor admitted that she'd arrived at her goal "completely by accident."

A few of her sidesteps saw her playing piano in a dance band at the age of 14 and nourishing dreams of nursing and other careers.

Daughter of a Saskatchewan lawyer, Miss Saddlemeyer's first jog towards a teaching career came through her interest in the Irish theatre.

"This style, started by John Millington Synge, Yeats and others of Dublin's Abbey Theatre, is really the granddaddy of modern theatre that has popped up all over the world since the late 1800s. You know, black jacket—and all that sort of thing!"

Post-Graduate Work

In between getting her BA at the University of Saskatchewan and MA at Queen's University, she managed to teach for a while at Victoria College before she was able to set out on a long-planned trip to Europe.

Recipient of an IODE post-graduate fellowship, she entered the University of London in London, England, where she was to stay for three years and eventually gain her Ph.D.

"I chose to go there because Una Ellis-Fermor, the great authority on Irish theatre, was professor of English. But I had hardly arrived before she died and I was back where I started."

Undaunted, she decided to do her own research and spent several months "foraging in Dublin attics and turning up reams of unpublished material. It just kept snowballing!"

Her work in Ireland put her outside the British Commonwealth for a while and disqualified her for her IODE fellowship but the first of the Canada Council grants came through at that time and she was fortunate enough to qualify.

If you think that now it was just a matter of study in Ireland and quietly writing her 200,000-word thesis in London—how wrong you are!

"I found that there was a very close link between Irish theatre and Stanislavsky's school in Moscow so off I went for a two-week course!"

In Polish Guard House

Even this journey was to provide unlooked-for distractions including a night in a guard house in Poland.

"Owing to a clerical error in my papers when the train reached the Polish border I was whisked off and deposited in the guardhouse. Not knowing what to do with me, they sent me back by the next train to East Berlin where I spent three uncomfortable days."

Having no papers to allow her to either remain there or leave, Miss Saddlemeyer was fortunate enough to be "hidden" by two young German school teachers.

"We sneaked across the border to West Berlin a couple of times and eventually I managed to get my papers in order and carry on to Moscow."

She tones down the risks she took in "jumping the border" by explaining that "I managed to lose myself in the crowd—I've always had a capacity of blending with the landscape."

Arriving in Moscow three days late, she found the whole course held up for her arrival.

"I was so mad by this time that I simply fumed and raged—saying it was all their fault that the papers that the Russian embassy had given me were not in order."

"To my amazement, my bullying tactics worked. This seemed to be the language they understood and we got along fine."

Of the Russian theatre she has this to say: "I really think that Russian playwrights are sometimes an embarrassment to the party. They adhere so strictly to party lines that there's been little or no improvement."

In addition to her teaching, Miss Saddlemeyer now finds herself with a mountain of unpublished works of Irish writers which the Oxford University Press of London, England, has asked her to edit. This assignment may take her back to Europe next summer.

But she's adamant that she'll be back for the fall term.

"I wouldn't want to give up teaching. There's nothing so exhilarating as seeing young students throwing their mental crutches away and learning to walk by themselves."

Asked if she has plans that include acting, she merely smiles and parries:

"I've found that teaching tends to demand quite a quantity of acting."

Life has been one long adventure for Miss Ann Saddlemeyer who now likes nothing better than to relax after a day of teaching and enjoy the view to be seen from her Mount Baker View home.

Say 'Aloha' to Muu Muu
... Latest in Sleep Wear

By PENNY SAVER

Aloha Sis:
If I knew more of the Hawaiian language, I would indulge but I'm afraid my vocabulary is limited to only two words, Aloha and muu muu!

Muu muu suggests to me a full, floral patterned, flowing dress, with a wide off-the-shoulder neckline and plenty—but plenty—of room.

During the summer these novel outfits from sunny Hawaii made their appearance on the streets and at the beaches. Women used them for comfortable house dresses, too.

Now they are being featured as sleep attire.

Long-sleeve flannel nightgowns with large, bright floral patterns in pink and blue, in small and medium are selling for $4.98. In dress-length, they feature wide off-the-shoulder necklines, too.

You may prefer cotton to flannel. Well... dress-length cotton night shirts in bronze, mauve, blue, green, pink and orange stripes, with Peter Pan collar, button front and knee-length pants sell for $6.98. They come in sizes 32 and 34.

Cotton muu muus in apricot or turquoise have short sleeves and are dress-length. Price is $5.98 in small and medium.

If, after all, you still prefer pyjamas, try flannel, waist-length muu muu in pink or blue floral design and pants in pink or blue solid shades. These are in small and medium sizes at $5.98.

Do call me about this colorful sleep wear.

DEAR ABBY...

So Who's Nuts?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I came home from a football game and put my binoculars on the table. Just for the fun of it I picked them up and started looking out the window at the apartment building across the way. Into focus came another man, looking directly at ME through a pair of binoculars! My heart almost stopped beating. Now I am wondering what kind of a nut lives so near to me. Should I call the police?

MORT
DEAR MORT: Why not give him the benefit of the doubt? He may be as normal as you. Strange how, when the speck is on one's own nose, it is a "beauty mark"—but on someone else's, it's a mole.

DEAR ABBY: You hear so many older people say how terrible the teenagers of today dress, make up their faces and do their hair. My mother told me herself that twenty years ago she used to put RATS in her hair to make her pompadour stand up higher than anybody else's. Now, can you top that?

LINDA
DEAR LINDA: The "rats" your mother used to puff up her pompadour were made of synthetic hair. They were not real rats. But the goldfish college boys of that era used to swallow—just to be cute—were very real indeed. And alive!

DEAR ABBY: My husband's firm promoted him, and moved us to another city 400 miles from our former home. We have one child, Karl, who is 14. Karl was very unhappy over the move because he had to leave all his friends. We live in a beautiful home in a fine neighborhood where there are many boys and girls Karl's age, but Karl shows no interest in making friends. He sits around the house and sulks, and look down-hearted and miserable. He used to be such a happy boy. Did we make a mistake to move? If Karl is going to be miserable it will not have been worth it. Any suggestions?

KARL'S MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Pretend not to notice Karl's sulking, and he will stop trying to punish you (that's what he's doing, you know) for disrupting his social pattern. He will meet plenty of potential friends at school. If this is the biggest adjustment Karl will ever have to make in his lifetime, he'll be lucky.

Marvin-Edwards Wedding
In St. John's Church

Chapel of St. John's Anglican Church was scene of a quiet wedding recently when Evelyn Gladys, only daughter of Mrs. Joseph Edwards, now of Victoria and formerly of Winnipeg, and the late Mr. Edwards, exchanged vows with Herbert Richard Marvin, 2436 Hamiota Street.

Ermine furs and navy blue accessories complemented the English dressmaker suit in powder blue worn by the bride. Pale pink feathered carnations and white heather were in her corsage. Only jewelry was cultured pearl earrings, gift of the groom.

Clarence J. Edwards came from Stonewall, Man., to give his sister in marriage.

Yellow and bronze chrysanthemums flanked the three-tier wedding cake that centred head table at a reception in the Princess Louise Room at the Empress Hotel. Fred C. Dyer, who had known the bride since her childhood in Winnipeg, proposed the toast to her happiness.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip up-island, the new Mrs. Marvin donned a beige wool suit, trimmed with beaver. Hat of magenta velvet roses and toning gloves complemented her ensemble.

Newlyweds will make their home at 2436 Hamiota Street.

Brilliant sunshine co-operated to make "Fun in the Sun" a pertinent title for exciting fashion show held around the sparkling pool of the Palm Springs Biltmore Hotel in California. Here, three lovely models pose with commentator, Mrs. Anne Cobin, owner of several ultra smart dress shops.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

By NONA DAMASKE

Contrast in California Style Shows

Palm Springs, Calif.—heavy on trees around the pool.

Worlds-apart were the two fashion shows I attended in Palm Springs—a sunny outdoor informal luncheon show at the Biltmore, with guests in swim suits or shorts, and a formal runway show at the elegant El Mirador Hotel.

Poolside Nona show was for the entertainment of hotel guests. It featured swim suits, beach coats, slender pants, shirts and shorts and shirtmaker dresses with full or sheath skirts.

Color ran rampant with yellows, limes and oranges blending with the fruit that hangs mother to daughter, I was told, and the training begins in infancy.

SEW SIMPLE

WIDTH OF MATERIAL DICTATES CENTRE SEAM

"Dear Eunice,
"So many of the patterns that have raglan sleeves, have a seam down the centre front of the dresses. I don't think this adds anything to the appearance of the dress and I am wondering why it is necessary."
Mrs. R. J.

Dear Mrs. R. J.:
The reason it is usually necessary to have a seam at the centre front is because of the width of fabric you are using, and also the length of the sleeves. Unless you are using wool fabric which is 54 inches wide, you usually cannot cut the bodice on the fold without having to piece the sleeve.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY

Gore: You will see this term used often now because of the change in fashion. A gore is a shaped section of a skirt, coat, or dress, which is wider at the lower edge. This forms a slight flare or fullness.

Please send all questions and suggestions to Sew Simple, in care of this paper.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Out of Line in Some Spot? Get Back 'In' With Exercise

The measurements for patterns of different sizes are accurate. If you habitually have trouble, perhaps the problem is your figure rather than the pattern.

The same thing is true when buying clothes. If over and over again you discover that you can wear a size 12 or 14 or 16 or 18 perfectly except for some one measurement which must always be let out, it's probably you rather than the dress or suit.

Many women have a lovely figure except for one out-of-proportion measurement. Often it is a protruding abdomen. Sometimes it is a thick waistline, and often it is large hips. If you are out-of-line in some one spot, why not reduce the offending area with exercise?

If you are overweight you will have to count calories, but if you are the correct weight, exercise can redistribute your weight more attractively.

Here is a good one for the hips. Lie on the floor on your back. Bend both knees and place your feet on the floor, fairly close to your hips. Lift your hips from the floor, throw your hips to the left and bump your right hip on the floor. Lift the hips, twist to the right and bump your left hip on the floor. Continue, bumping first the right and then the left hip.

For Newcomers

A masquerade party and dance has been planned by the Icebreakers Club of Victoria as part of the club's program of welcoming newcomers to the city. Affair will be held at the Academy of Ballroom Dancing, 1012 Douglas Street, tonight at 8.30 p.m.

Be sure to bump the fat portion of the hips (not the spine) against the floor. This exercise also provides a good twist for the waist.

If you would like to have my tested exercises for hip-slimming, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 3. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Family Dinner—Plans were completed at meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to Metchosis Volunteer Fire Department, for the family turkey dinner to be held on Friday, Nov. 10, in Metchosis Hall from 6 to 7 p.m. followed by entertainment and a coffee hour. Buffet Supper Precedes Dance

Dr. and Mrs. W. N. English entertained at a buffet supper in their home on Admirals Road prior to the annual dance of the Pacific Naval Laboratory, held in the clubhouse of the Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association, Esquimalt Squadron, on Friday evening. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Fabula of Pasadena, Calif. Mr. Fabula is presently on exchange duty from the Naval Ordnance Test Station in the California city. Also invited were Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Sanders, Dr. and Mrs. J. Tully, Nanaimo; Mrs. T. D. Newton, Deep River, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Turner, Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Fleischer, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Milne, Miss Marilyn Berry and Mr. A. Moillett.

Mr. Thate Honored

Department co-workers of Mr. G. Thate in the Hudson's Bay Company gathered recently at the Princess Mary Restaurant to honor him and Mrs. Thate with a dinner party. Mr. Thate is being transferred shortly to Saskatoon. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. Ball, Mr. E. Chalmers, Mrs. G. Rawlinson, Mrs. J. Dobbie, Mrs. P. Gallant, Mrs. B. Rawlings, Mrs. P. Hill, Mrs. H. Wright, Mrs. P. Holt, Mrs. E. Warner, Mrs. P. Showers, Mrs. M. Wooster, Mrs. H. Newcombe, Mrs. B. Edgecombe, Mrs. J. Baird, Mrs. J. Michie, Mrs. J. Borrie, Mrs. E. Menzies, Mrs. J. Charlton, Mrs. Mary Puhach, Mrs. K. Jensen, Mrs. E. Evans, Mrs. J. Stewart, Mrs. M. Blythe and Miss J. Crothall.

To Be Married

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Ballard, 549 Agnes Street, Saanich, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jane Margaret, to Mr. John Frederick "Jack" McLellan, only son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. McLellan, 4283 Gordon Head Road. The wedding will take place in the Church of Our Lord, at 11.45 a.m. on Saturday, December 23, with Bishop D. A. G. Rankin officiating. Miss Ballard is a graduate of Provincial Teacher's College, Victoria, and Mr. McLellan is a graduate in forestry from the University of British Columbia. Mrs. W. Stanley Birch will be matron of honor and Miss Marilyn McLellan, bridesmaid. Best man will be Mr. Anthony C. Sayle.

In San Francisco

Recent visitors to British Columbia House in San Francisco, Calif., from Vancouver Island were Miss Sara Fraser, Miss Norma A. Jones, Mr. Frank L. Leslie, Magistrate and Mrs. W. L. Ostler, Miss B. McIntyre, Miss M. C. Gibson and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Shearer of Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Sutton of Zeballos and Mr. D. J. Laverock, Shawnigan Lake.

Wedding Guests

Mr. and Mrs. H. Butler came from Mesachie Lake to attend the wedding of Miss Winona Butler and Mr. Campbell Thomson in St. Patrick's Church on Friday evening. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. Butler of Parksville and Miss Marcia Lawrence, Dawson Creek.

Debutante

Miss Maureen McAloney, 19-year-old daughter of Mrs. M. T. McAloney, 366 St. Charles Street, and the late Mr. G. McAloney, will be among the Victoria debutantes who will make their formal bows to society at the USI Ball to be held at the Empress Hotel on November 24. Miss McAloney will be sponsored by Capt. S. J. B. Evans, Nanaimo. She is a graduate of Victoria High School and is presently taking a business course.

Announcement

The engagement is announced of Linda-Mae Chipping, youngest daughter of Mrs. Benjamin R. Knowles, 2407 Tryon Road, Sidney, B.C., and Mr. William Chipping of Saanichton, to Mr. Peter Bernard Berard, son of Mr. Joseph Berard, Kelowna, B.C. The wedding will take place on Saturday, November 25, in St. Elizabeth's Church at Sidney. Attendants will be Mrs. Dennis Readings, Misses Sharon Hannan and Carol Holderidge and the flower girls, Wendy and Holly Vivian.

Mrs. A. G. Fabula and her two children, David, six, and four-year-old Christina (Tina for short), are fascinated with their first visit to Canada and their new home in Victoria. They arrived from La Canada, Calif., two weeks ago when Mr. Fabula was appointed to the Pacific Naval Laboratory for a six-month period. While in Victoria they are living in the Cunningham Road home of Dr. A. M. Patterson who is taking Mr. Fabula's position at the Naval Ordnance Test Station in Pasadena, Calif. Exchange was initiated during Dr. Patterson's recent visit to the Fabula home when his American counterpart "wondered" if it would be possible to find a volunteer who would exchange places with him. Dr. Patterson volunteered.

Vows Exchanged This Afternoon

Married this afternoon in St. Alban's Anglican Church were Eleanor Mary Rhodes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rhodes, 2917 Cedar Hill Road, and Richard Gerald Gerdes, son of Rev. Benjamin Gerdes and Mrs. Gerdes of Stonewall, Man. Chaplain E. S. Radcliffe, RCN, officiated. Flower baskets of white chrysanthemums and red carnations were at the altar. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white silk organza waltz length gown. The lace jacket featured lily-point sleeves and had a pearl button front fastening. Her finger-tip veil was held with a rhinestone tiara. Red roses were in her bouquet. Attendants, Mrs. G. Loset, matron of honor, and Miss Marilynne Smith, bridesmaid, wore identical red velvet dresses with white accessories and carried colonial bouquets of white carnations. Best man was Fred Lambert and ushering guests to their pews were David Rhodes, brother of the bride and Bill Smith. A reception was held in the Cedar Hill Road home of the bride's parents. Gordon Smith proposed the toast and a congratulatory telegram from G. Watson and C. P. Crobar of Prince George, was read. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. George Watson, Prince George, and the bride's brother, Dr. F. Rhodes, Vancouver. For travelling on honeymoon to Manitoba the bride wore a chocolate brown three-piece knit suit, beige coat and brown and yellow accessories with a yellow rose corsage. When the newlyweds return they will live at 1216 Richardson Street.

Mrs. Edmund Clarke, 3159 Qu'Appelle St., announces the engagement of her only daughter, Margaret Rose, to Mr. Alexander Condon Ringstad, eldest son of Mrs. Helen C. Ringstad, 2795 Beach Drive, and the late Emory T. Ringstad. The wedding will take place in St. Luke's Anglican Church on Saturday, November 25 at 7.30 p.m., with Rev. T. D. B. Ragg officiating. The bride-elect is a 1959 graduate of the Royal Jubilee Hospital school of nursing, and the daughter of the late Rev. Clarke. (Photo of Miss Clarke by Meyers Studios, Mr. Ringstad's by Chevrons Studio.)

Honeymoon in San Francisco

After a honeymoon in San Francisco, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Michael Barry Lusk will make their home at Olde England Inn in this city. Their wedding took place in St. Francis Xavier Church in Trail, B.C., this afternoon with Fr. P. McCarthy officiating. Parents of the bride, the former Anita Gail Le Page, are Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Le Page of Trail. Groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Lusk of Nelson, B.C. Given in marriage by her father, the dark-haired bride wore a floor-length satin gown styled on classic lines with round necklines, lily point sleeves and skirt en train. A coronet of seed pearls held the bouffant chapel-length veil. Bouquet was of red roses and lily of the valley. Only jewelry was a diamond and pearl pendant, gift of the groom. Short full-skirted gown in green satin was chosen by Mrs. A. Avison, matron of honor and sister of the bride. Small bronze chrysanthemums were in the nosegay, she carried. Similar gown in rust tone was worn by bridesmaid, Miss Jo Ann Lusk, the groom's sister. Nosegay was of tiny yellow chrysanthemums. Both complemented their ensembles with whimsies in autumn shades. Three-year-old niece of the bride, Wendy Avison, was flower girl in a white nylon dress, posed over a gold satin petticoat. She wore a bandeau of tiny bronze and yellow chrysanthemums and carried a basket filled with autumn flowers. Jack Lusk was best man for his brother and ushers were the bride's cousins, Wesley Arnot and Albert Le Page, and Jack Pearce. Miss Monica Kinahan sang "Ave Maria." Organist was Mrs. W. Wilson. Immediately following the ceremony, guests went to the Elks' Hall where light refreshments were served and wedding gifts displayed. Later, a turkey dinner was served at Mine-Mill Hall where John Jarrett proposed the toast to the bride. Mountain ash and chrysanthemums decorated the tables. A three-tier wedding cake was cut. As her going-away ensemble the bride chose a magenta suit with black accessories and white carnation corsage. Robert Burns McMicking Chapter, IOOE, Tuesday, at 8 p.m., home of Mrs. A. M. Kirk, 2850 Beach Drive.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Tree Dwarfing Method Provides Key to Culture

By JACK BEASTALL

In common with a host of other gardeners I read a lot about dwarfed fruit trees when they first became available but many years passed before I became interested enough to find out in what way they differ from the older standard trees.

An understanding of how the dwarfed trees are produced is, as I discovered, a key to their culture and successful cropping.

Most fruit trees are propagated by a system known as budding. A bud from a known variety is inserted beneath the bark of a sapling grown from seed, and as the growth from the bud develops the top part of the sapling is removed and the known variety takes its place.

The main reason for going to this trouble is the fact that seedling trees rarely produce satisfactory fruit, and even when they do the fruit is not the same as that from which the seed was taken.

The few exceptions have given us new varieties but most of these have resulted from intentional hybridizing.

WILD ROOTS

Just when or where the dwarfed trees originated I do not know. Possibly some observant gardener noted the smaller stature of the wild fruits and experimented with budding known varieties to the wild roots.

Once their value was recognized a concerted effort was made to obtain suitable kinds of roots, and today these are produced in quantity and the effects of each are known in advance.

It was found that different rootstocks produced different heights, and that some dwarfing roots are more satisfactory than others in given soils. Any tree that has its ultimate size limited is called a dwarf, but these may range from true dwarfs of five to six feet, through medium dwarfs of 10 to 12 feet, and tall dwarfs of some 15 to 18 feet.

When purchasing the gardener needs to state the preferred height and the type of soil in which the trees are to grow.

The essential difference between the standard trees and the dwarfed forms is in the size of the root. The dwarfing rootstocks make a compact root system entirely devoid of the large roots of the standard trees.

The smaller root systems do not pick up the same amount of food the large and foraging roots can handle. This limits the amount of top growth that can be made.

CONSTANT FEEDING

Since the roots on dwarfed trees are not extensive, the food supply from the small amount of soil they occupy can soon be depleted, and continued cropping depends on a regular feeding program.

While the smaller root systems are a blessing in many ways, the lack of deep anchoring roots makes staking and tying essential in most gardens, and more so in gardens exposed to wind.

Large, stout stakes should be driven into the planting holes before filling-in so that no roots are damaged, and the ties will need frequent inspection to determine their condition and to see that expansion of the trunks is not restricted.

The point where the named variety was budded to the rootstock will appear as a swelling or bulge low on the trunk. When planting, this bulge must be kept three "multiple graft" which implies more than one variety on the tree.

Dwarfed fruit trees will produce the first fruits when quite young, sometimes the first spring after planting in the garden. Since the dwarfed trees are not as vigorous as standards there is no question that these first fruits should be removed before they develop. To produce fruits and seeds so soon after being moved is often more than the trees can stand.

I know how difficult it is for a gardener to remove the first fruits, for I could not bring myself to do it when I planted dwarfs several years ago. But the three trees which fruited the first year were all dead in five years whereas those that fruited in the second or third year all thrived.

DOUBLE GRAFT

Not all kinds of fruits can be dwarfed, apples and pears being most amenable to this form of manipulation. Even the pears can be difficult since some varieties will not take when budded to dwarfing roots.

To overcome this, the rootstocks are first budded with a variety which is compatible to both rootstock and the named variety, and when this bud has produced growth it is budded with the desired named variety.

This explains the two bulges seen low on the trunk of some pear trees. Such trees are said to be "double-worked," a term not to be confused with

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL. Q. I have apples still on my trees, and wonder when they will be ripe enough to fall. J.P., Gordon Head.

A. Your problem seems to be that tree fruit growing is a new experience. Fruits should never be allowed to fall; they should be picked, carefully, without bruising or damaging in any way. Early varieties of apples and pears will come freely from the branches when ripe, if the fruit is lifted in the hand and given a slight twist. Late varieties have certain picking dates according to the season, and they ripen gradually during storage until they are ready to eat at periods after the new year. All kinds are usually picked by the end of October. Take two or three good fruit to be identified at the Department of Agriculture, Douglas Block, Parliament Buildings, then in future years you would have an idea when to pick.

FEEL YOUNG AGAIN

By LELORD KORDEL

Planned Diet Price Of Worthwhile Goal

Your great desire is to live a long, useful life, all the while looking and feeling far younger than your years. Certainly this is a goal worth aiming at.

But every thing worth attaining has a price. And the price of a long, youthful life is planned diet.

No more haphazard eating; no more pan-dering to a finicky appetite; no more plundering your body's health with indifferent and unwise selections of "sub-standard" foods.

At first, the careful and judicious selection of your protecting foods will be a novelty you'll enjoy.

Tendency to Lapse

But after that may come the danger period when the novelty provided by a new regimen begins to wear off, and you are tempted to lapse into the "oh, it's too much trouble" kind of defeatist thinking.

Yet once you have successfully weathered this period of temptation to return to the old haphazard way of eating, you'll subconsciously begin accepting, or rejecting, each food on the basis of its contribution to your youthfulness and long life, with the same skill as that exercised by a trained nutritionist.

Instinctively, you will avoid the old "goosey" meals with which you formerly insulted your body.

Fighting Disease

Let's see what nutritional science has been doing to fight the "disease enemies of your youth."

First, we'll take blood disorders. One of the most common of these in persons past 40 is anaemia.

There's no reason why a person shouldn't possess a healthy, glowing complexion in later years, provided his blood is rich with red coloring matter.

But healthy blood cannot be formed without protein any more than it can be maintained without the minerals iron and copper.

You can't build good red blood on tea and toast!

Anemia at any age, and particularly after 40, cannot be shrugged off as "not serious," for anemia in middle life is an ailment that can shorten your years of useful vigorous living.

If a blood count reveals that your blood contains too few red cells and has a low percentage of haemoglobin (that is, it is not red enough), then you should act at once to restore your blood to normal.

Mrs. L. was a woman in her sixties. The pallor of her skin and frowniness of her dry hair indicated that anaemia had already made inroads into her former good health.

Iron Deterioration

Among the many factors connected with her body's deterioration, the diminished absorption of iron from the foods she ate was probably the most significant.

As people grow older, as in Mrs. L.'s case, they often tend to have less and less hydrochloric acid in their stomachs.

That is why a slight anaemia frequently accompanies aging. To encourage the production of enough hydrochloric acid in her stomach, I told Mrs. L. to drink a glassful of buttermilk before each meal.

Mrs. L. asked me to tell her how she could restore her blood haemoglobin to normal as quickly as possible.

List of Foods

Here is a list of iron-rich foods to add to the family diet:

Foods of Animal Origin: Liver of all kinds, lamb, egg yolks, heart, kidney, lean beef, dark poultry meat.

Foods of Vegetable Origin: Apricots, unsulphured molasses, peaches, prunes, artichokes, lettuce, whole-grain cereals, dried beans, dried peas, raisins, apples, beet tops, leeks, radishes, berries, corn, grapes, lemons, oranges, pineapple, whole rye, lentils, pumpkin, walnuts, onions, pears, pomegranates, currants.

As a safety measure, your doctor will probably also prescribe a mineral supplement containing organic iron to rebuild your blood to normal as quickly as possible.

Her Life Changed

As endurance and vitality increase, one will be rewarded with a new enthusiasm for living, the ability to think more clearly.

I saw Mrs. L. again not too long after that. The clothes were the same, but this woman sparkled!

"The doctor was amazed at the way I've rebuilt my haemoglobin," she said, not waiting for me to ask how she was coming along.

Another living proof of how properly planned diet can help us feel young again!

Now, fast relief from acid indigestion!

Yes, now you can enjoy freedom from acid indigestion, heartburn, and that uncomfortable distended feeling. Just reach for a roll of TUMS; eat a couple of those mild, minty tablets—get relief immediately! No after-taste with TUMS. And they're so convenient to carry in purse or pocket... ready to take unobtrusively, any time stomach upset strikes. You never need water or a glass. TUMS cost so little too.

BACKING BUT NOT A BIT BACKWARD

Because she wished to put her best side forward, the U.S. Navy's helicopter carrier USS Iwo Jima swung around ponderously in Esquimalt Harbor this morning, to dock at HMCS Naden with stern to beach. Her "best side" is starboard, where the ceremonial quarterdeck and proverbial welcome mat are located. Provincial and civic dignitaries will cross the quarterdeck today; everybody is welcome between 1 and 5 p.m. Sunday. Entrance is via main gate, HMCS Naden. (See story, page 15.)

K Threatens New Tests If U.S. Begins Again

FRANCE SETS ATOMIC BLAST

PARIS (UPI)—France may set off its fifth atomic test blast in the Sahara this weekend, the newspaper Paris-Presso said today.

The newspaper said the test would be an underground shot, probably in the Hoggar Mountains. The fourth French test in April had been described by a French spokesman as the last of an above-ground series.

Test Story Aimed Behind Iron Curtain

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Voice of America will use as many as 52 radio transmitters Sunday in a saturation campaign designed to beam a report on Soviet nuclear testing behind the Iron Curtain.

Programs keyed to the theme, "Have you been told?" will be broadcast in Latvian, Estonian, Lithuanian, Armenian, Georgian and Ukrainian as well as Russian and English.

The full story of efforts to reach a test ban agreement and the subsequent Russian nuclear tests will be covered.

(Times News Services)

MOSCOW—An Italian cabinet minister said today Premier Khrushchev told him the Soviet Union is ready to set off a new series of nuclear blasts if the United States resumes atmospheric testing.

Giuseppe Codacci Pisanelli, minister without portfolio and president of the Interparliamentary Union, talked to reporters before leaving for Rome en route to Washington to see President Kennedy. He saw Khrushchev in the Kremlin Friday.

Reuters news agency said usually reliable sources denied reports that Khrushchev had promised concessions on Berlin.

They called completely inaccurate reports that Khrushchev had said: "We must have negotiations and negotiations mean not only to receive concessions but to make concessions."

In fact, they said, Codacci Pisanelli used the phrase to Khrushchev. The Soviet premier merely agreed to this as a principle of negotiations generally, the sources declared.

This was not regarded by Codacci Pisanelli or any diplomatic sources here as any indication that Khrushchev was committing himself to making specific concessions on Berlin.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Russia exploded another nuclear device in the atmosphere today the Atomic Energy Commission announced.

SOFT-SHOE SHUFFLE FOR NURSERY GUARDS

LONDON (AP)—Sentries outside Clarence House did not stamp their nailed boots when turning at the end of their beats today.

They adopted a new soft-shoe routine without lifting their feet high off the ground.

A War Office spokesman said that, although no official order had been issued, it was quite possible that someone from Princess Margaret's household had said, "a quiet word to the guard commander about keeping his chaps quiet."

AGAINST GERMANS

Resistance Fighter Faces Atrocity Charge

MUNICH (AP)—Police are holding a Yugoslav official suspected of complicity in the slaying of several German soldiers by Yugoslav anti-Nazi partisans in the Second World War.

It is the first time in West Germany that an Allied resistance fighter had been accused of war crimes against German soldiers.

Lazar Vracaric, 44, executive of a large state-owned plant in Zagreb, was arrested Thursday in a Munich hotel while on a business trip.

The Yugoslav consulate-general announced that a harp protest was lodged with the West German government through the Swedish Embassy in Bonn. A consulate spokesman said the arrest was based on a warrant issued by Nazi occupation authorities in Yugoslavia in 1941.

Dr. Heinrich Gulden, chief prosecutor, said Vracaric and others are suspected of having "insidiously murdered" a group of German soldiers in an ambush in October of 1941. He said the warrant was made out some time ago.

The Yugoslav spokesman said the consulate-general's demand for Vracaric's release was declined by a Munich court because it felt it was not competent to issue a ruling.

The Swedish Embassy—which represents Yugoslav interests in the Bonn capital—was asked to relay a protest in the "sharpest possible terms," the spokesman said.

West Germany severed diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia after President Tito's government recognized Communist East Germany three years ago. Consular relations were retained.

KATANGA

Mobutu Suffers Setback

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—A Congolese government spokesman said today Gen. Joseph Mobutu's troops suffered a heavy defeat at the Katanga stronghold of Kanjama Friday and his invasion column is withdrawing toward the Kasai frontier.

Premier Cyrille Adoula's press secretary said Mobutu's advancing troops suffered "heavy casualties" in the action and would await reinforcements from the central government province of Kasai.

The spokesman said the important Katanga town had been heavily reinforced by the army of President Moise Tshombe, including "many Europeans."

Kanjama, about 40 miles inside Katanga, is a principal base for the small bombing planes of the Katanga air force which were reported to have been attacking United Nations and Congolese army positions in Kasai.

No other details of the fighting were available here. Mobutu announced Thursday that his troops had advanced triumphantly up to 35 miles into Katanga.

NOT CLEARED FOR MANOEUVRES

No 'Hawks' Those 'Angels'

The U.S. Navy's "Blue Angels" made an all-too-brief sortie over Victoria this morning.

Expected to perform two or three evolutions as part of a "hands across the border" gesture, they made a high-speed pass over the city, then vanished into the east.

Hundreds of cars crowded Beacon Hill Park waterfront, where sightseers were hoping for an exhibition similar to those put on by the RCAF Golden Hawks.

A telephone call to Whidbey Island, where the Angels are based for a giant U.S. Navy air show today and Sunday, revealed little but that the Angels cleared from the big air station 33 miles east of here, had been over the city at 11:29 a.m. and had since returned.

'SUCH A FIZZLE'

An information officer apologized for the exhibition being "such a fizzle."

"An explanation may be that they only had time for what they did," he said. "They had firm commitments here, and it may be that they didn't have the time or the fuel to hunt around for the vantage point where they were expected to perform."

STARS OF TV

The Blue Angels fly the supersonic Grumman F11F-1 Tiger, and are well known here through their television appearances. Six aircraft take part in the manoeuvres.

Original plans called for them to perform over Victoria Friday afternoon at 2:30, but the flight was called off because of bad weather at Whidbey Island.

One of the Angels, Lt. Hank Givenski, said the group did "all we were authorized to do over populated areas."

"We put on a show of red and blue water from our wing tanks and smoke from our exhausts in a pass over the city," he said. "We weren't cleared for manoeuvres, and also had to visit Seattle on the same trip."

He said there were six aircraft in the double-V formation which flew over the city.

Queen's Visit Set Next Week

ACCRA (AP)—Bombs were exploded in Accra today — one damaging a statue of Ghanaian President Kwame Nkrumah — and police blamed "terrorists."

It was the first reported violent display against the Nkrumah regime. There were no reports of casualties.

One bomb damaged the big bronze statue of the president that stands in front of Parliament.

A second bomb exploded almost simultaneously, damaging a war memorial in nearby Black Star Square, where the Queen is to review a parade during her visit next week.

First indications were that the bombs were planted by political rivals of Nkrumah, who rules this prosperous Gold Coast African republic with a dictatorial hand.

OPPOSITIONERS Jailed

Nkrumah has clamped 400 political opponents in jail and only this week his rubber-stamp parliament approved legislation creating special courts with power to order death sentences for political offences.

Unconfirmed reports said two bombs also were planted in Christianborg Castle where the Queen will stay during her 11-day visit. Police said they knew nothing about this.

Trade Pact With Russia

LONDON (Reuters)—Russia and Ghana began talks Friday on the conclusion of a long-term trade agreement and on the expansion of economic and technical co-operation, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

N.Y. City Operates Struck Milk Plant

NEW YORK (AP)—The city took over operation of a struck milk plant today to supply hospitals, schools, and other institutions during a Teamsters union strike that has paralyzed the normal flow of milk into New York City and Long Island.

HAPPY BRITONS ENGROSSSED IN GUESSING GAME

What Will They Name Him—Tony Jr., Albert, Ludwig?

By MARGARET SAVILLE

LONDON (UPI)—Britons indulged in a national guessing game today trying to pick a given name for the newest heir to the throne, tiny Viscount Linley of Nymans.

As the apple of the nation's eye slept in his blue-trimmed crib sheltered for a time against a world of clamor and adulation, Britons "wet the baby's head"—traditional term for the toast drunk to the newborn child.

Clarence House, where the baby was born, was banked with flowers. In the room of the baby's mother, Princess Margaret, were three bouquets of roses from his father, Lord Snowdon, the former Antony Armstrong-Jones.

Doctors today pronounced mother and child in excellent condition.

Margaret is reported eager to be back on her feet and in her usual form in time for London's pre-Christmas "little season," always one of the gayest and most informal social times of the year in London.

The baby inherited one of his father's titles at birth but he also will get a given name or names.

The Daily Sketch reached far back into the Armstrong-Jones family tree and came up with the name of Ludwig.

The Daily Herald added up the favorite royal names of Queen Victoria's sons and grandsons and predicted the boy would be named Albert.

Tourists interviewed outside Clarence House favored George, after Margaret's late father, King George VI. Others thought it might be Antony.

Tony himself led the toast Friday by gathering three of the four doctors who attended the birth and drinking a glass of champagne with them.

Crowds of sightseers trickled

past Clarence House far into the night, peering at the light from Princess Margaret's bedroom.

For a time the little Jones boy will enjoy privacy but eventually the public spotlight will bathe him as it has the three children of Queen Elizabeth.

One newspaper, the Daily Mirror, consulted an astrologer who decided that the new heir to the throne—he stands fifth in line—"is born to be a leader with character not easily overawed. At school he will be no shining light. In manhood he will be tall, slim with penetrating eyes."

The Daily Express relied on an old saw and said that "Friday's child will be loving and giving."

VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1961—PAGE 15

'Damper, Milder' On Sunday

Weekend weather may be damp, but milder than this morning's frost-producing atmosphere in which temperatures slumped to between 26 and 36 degrees.

Tonight's overnight minimums will be between 33 and 38 and the high Sunday will be 48 with winds southeast at 15-25 miles an hour.

The present weather system is weakening, weatherman William Mackie says, with the result that Sunday will be mostly cloudy with accompanying light rain.

Although temperatures last month were colder than Friday night, the high degree of moisture in the air produced a first heavy white frost in many parts of the city.

RULES CHANGED FOR MISS VICTORIA

By HAL JONES

Victoria's Nina Holden will end her term of office as "Miss Canada" in 1962 by getting a

"one-in-a-million" opportunity to fame and fortune.

The 18-year-old beauty, who took over the Miss Canada crown in September, will represent Canada in the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N.J., next year.

Normally, Miss Canada is chosen in August and attends the Miss America pageant in September, but Nina, because of her late succession, missed the American pageant this year.

To give her this chance, the Miss Canada contest in 1962 will now be held after the Miss America pageant.

BUSY YEAR AHEAD

"It's wonderful," Nina's mother Mrs. E. T. Holden, 465 Foster, said today. "I'm thrilled—Nina wants me to accompany her to Atlantic City next year."

Meanwhile Nina, who is still Miss Victoria, has a busy and strenuous year ahead.

She has been invited by the Haitian ambassador to Canada to attend the Pan American Festival of Tourism which is to be held in Port au Prince during the first two weeks in December.

HERE FOR CHRISTMAS

From Haiti, she will return to Eastern Canada via New York and is due back in Victoria for the first time in three months on Dec. 19.

After a brief Yuletide recess she leaves again for the East where she starts a cross Canada tour at Kingston, Ont., in mid-January.

Also on the horizon are trips to Great Britain and the Continent.

HOSPITAL WING CEREMONY SET

A ground-breaking ceremony on the site of the new $2,623,000 wing at Royal Jubilee Hospital is planned for next Friday, hospital administrator George Masters said today.

"The date and time is still subject to confirmation," he said, "but the ceremony will be held late next week."

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Could you please inform me who was the builder or builders of the original Blue-nose sailing schooner built in Nova Scotia? M.P.

A.—The 285-ton schooner Blue-nose was designed by W. J. Rowe of Halifax. She was built of entirely Nova Scotia materials (except the masts) by Smith and Rhuland at Lunenburg. She was launched on March 26, 1921.

Q.—I would like to know how to trace my family tree. M.C.

A.—A record of your ancestors in Canada would be kept by the registrars of vital statistics of the provinces in which they were born. Start with your immediate family and work backwards, using the information supplied about your grandparents by the province in which your parents were born, etc. British antecedents can be traced through the registrars at Somerset House, London, or New Register House, Edinburgh.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along with the address to "Ask the Times," Editor, Questions and Answers, 1100 Douglas St., Victoria, B.C. 275 PERISHED WHEN SS PACIFIC WENT DOWN

86 Years Ago Today Tragedy

By HUMPHRY DAVY

On a clear November afternoon, 86 years ago today, a vivacious brown-haired young woman boarded the steamship Pacific bound for San Francisco.

Fanny Palmer, 19, wearing a light grey balmy skirt and black cord jacket with velvet cuffs, was looking forward to her first trip to the big city where she planned to stay the winter with two older sisters.

There would be dances, parties, dinners and a chance to meet many eligible young bachelors.

Friends gathered to see Fanny off. She was known as Victoria's "little princess." She was a popular young lady, not only beautiful, but a talented and accomplished musician.

The decks of the Pacific were black with passengers as the steamship sailed out of Victoria harbor.

Fanny waved a last goodbye. Two weeks later the relentless sea washed ashore, a short distance from her home, the body of the young woman.

ter of the Pacific Northwest coast.

More than 275 lives were lost. The Pacific collided off Cape Flattery with the Orpheus, a sailing vessel bound from San Francisco to Nanaimo for coal.

The impact was slight—a glancing blow—yet was too much for the aging Pacific.

She filled and sank in a few moments, carrying to death all on board, with the exception of two persons—Neil Henley, a Scot-born quartermaster, and Henry F. Jelly, a passenger.

The Orpheus continued her course without making an effort to save those on the steamer.

The skipper of the Orpheus, Capt. Charles A. Sawyer, told a court of inquiry in San Francisco he never heard the cries for help and was unaware the steamship was sinking.

The Orpheus crew, however, all claimed they heard the cries. The witness testified he was ordered to keep his course.

The court of inquiry dismissed the evidence of the seamen on the grounds they hated their captain and were prejudiced.

UNIQUE VISITOR IWO JIMA HERE FOR 2-DAY STAY

Carrier Could Fight War, Aid in Disaster

By MONTE ROBERTS

USS Iwo Jima, the spanking-new United States Navy helicopter-carrier which arrived at Esquimalt this morning for a two-day visit, is in the unique position of being a ship built for war with a great potential for peace-time service.

Her helicopter squadron combined with extensive medical and hospital facilities fit her ideally to lend aid to disaster areas stricken by flood, tornado, or other blow from nature.

One of her officers today pointed out the 'copter could fly rescue and medical teams to areas cut off from ground or other air assistance. Her massive sick-bay and other facilities could take care of more than 1,000 casualties, and she could be used as a transfer point to other rescue ships.

But war, of course, was primarily in mind when she was designed and built, from the keel up, as the first task-force unit specializing in "vertical envelopment."

This is the concept of landing highly-trained fighting units in advantageous positions during amphibious landing operations.

She will be capable of landing up to 1,500 Marines, in nine-man platoons, via 24 helicopters, in a shuttle service taking slightly over four hours.

Officers emphasized that Iwo Jima is not a replacement of other, tried-and-tested, task force units, such as troop, transport, weapon and supply carriers.

For defence, she would depend on destroyers, cruisers and aircraft carriers attached to the task force complex.

The Iwo Jima does not bulk large in this age of super-carriers. At full load, including a full battalion of Marines, she is rated at 18,000 tons. As she entered harbor this morning, minus ammunition and with about 80 per cent fuel, she displaces about 14,000 tons.

Iwo Jima, commissioned only last August, is still a long way from combat readiness. At present she is on workups following acceptance and commissioning trials.

Although she is already a member of the United States First Fleet, five or six weeks of intensive exercises in the San Diego area face her before returning to the Bremerton shipyard for a month of mechanical polishing—a sort of 1,000-mile checkup.

This is her first visit to any port other than her own Bremerton birthplace, where she was built to designs on which the USN and Marine Corps collaborated.

Essentially, she is a troop carrier with a landing platform—plus the all-important medical establishment. In time of war, she could handle her own casualties and many from the rest of the task force as well.

On this visit, two of her helicopters are aboard. Personnel consists of about 40 officers and 500 men—300 of whom will be on shore leave tonight.

Mass of Fallout Misses Victoria

A vast cloud of radioactive dust created Monday by Russia's 50-megaton nuclear bomb has missed Victoria.

Traveling at from 60 to 65 miles per hour on a front 150 miles wide, its projected path took it over Campbell River and Powell River, and it was reported passing over the Great Lakes region today.

If the cloud had passed over Victoria, it is expected there would have been increased traces of radioactive fallout Friday.

However, Dr. William English, assistant director of the Pacific Naval Laboratory, said the air reading for Friday was "slightly down" from that of the day before, and this morning was down even a little more.

30,000 FEET UP

The cloud, which takes from 10 to 12 hours to pass a given point, is at 30,000 feet altitude.

Spokesman for Canadian Pacific and Trans-Canada Air Lines said that since their jets fly generally at 39,000 feet, they will have to take evasive action if necessary during take-offs and landings near the cloud.

HEALTH PROBE GROUP HERE IN FEBRUARY

Canada's royal commission on health services will sit in Victoria next February to hear briefs from interested groups.

Dr. E. G. McCoy, acting executive director, B.C. Medical Association, announced here today.

Dr. McCoy said the commission is now holding public hearings in the Maritimes and will hold similar hearings across Canada.

"Doctors, laymen and all groups interested in national health are invited to appear before the commission."

Island Princess To Be Operated In 'Another Area'

Coast Ferries Ltd. plans to put its Mv. Island Princess to work in "another area" in the vicinity of Vancouver Island.

Capt. O. H. New, president, said today in Vancouver.

It will give up its Steveston-Gulf Islands service Nov. 15.

The company could not afford to carry on its present service, and had offered the vessel for sale to the government.

Deadline for the sale was midnight Friday, and it was not taken up by the government, Capt. New said today.

As a result, the company feels free to go into another area.

Plans are still tentative, Capt. New said, but will be announced in detail next week.

The adoption committee for the aid of displaced persons in Europe will meet at noon Monday in the basement of St. Andrew's Cathedral Parish Hall, 740 View Street.

Oak Bay to Vote On Marina Plan

Present Boathouse Due to Be Scrapped

By AB KENT

Oak Bay ratepayers probably will be asked next month to approve a 20-year lease for operation of a modern marina development at Turkey Head.

If a proposal isn't prepared by Dec. 7 election day, then a special plebiscite on the question will be presented early in the new year, Reeve George Murdoch said today.

Continued operation of Oak Bay Boathouse facilities is assured during the winter and next season, even though a modern, fully-equipped marina may start to rise within a few months.

THREE BIDS MADE

The 50-year-old former home of Royal Victoria Yacht Club is due for demolition when Oak Bay council names a successful bidder for the full-scale development of a commercial small-boat facility.

Councillors are expected to deal Monday night with a recommendation by the parks committee, which received three submissions by last Monday's deadline.

They range from an offer to provide a marina for $60,000, to one proposing a million-dollar-plus development.

NO RENEWAL

The present lease on boat-house operation expires next June and will not be renewed on the existing basis.

When council has decided upon a plan for a new lease—limited by provincial statute to 20 years—ratepayers will be asked to approve the scheme next month.

If a plan is accepted, the proposer may buy out the existing lease in order to begin work on the new marina.

UNBROKEN SERVICE

Reeve Murdoch assured boat-owners today there would be continuity of operation, so that the old facilities would be kept until replaced by new ones.

He pointed out significance of the proposed development at the base of Turkey Head breakwater.

There would be moorage for about 100 small craft, a new building to house repair facilities, a restaurant, public rooms, marine sales, fuel dock, engine storage, water and power connections to floats and allied features.

TREASURY BENEFITS

In taxes alone, a completed new development of the magnitude envisaged would put at least $3,000 a year into the treasury, it is estimated.

"It will enhance the appearance of the whole area with a new building and landscaping. There will be a new view for the people across the road," Reeve Murdoch said.

When completed, the building will be a maximum 15 feet high and completely screened by greenery.

B.C.'s Up-to-Date Red Riding Hood

By FRANK RUTTER

Times Legislative Reporter

Once upon a time there was a pretty young girl called Little Red Riding Hood.

Well, actually that wasn't really her name; it was B.C. Beautiful, almost as nice a name, but this is a fairy story, so she has to be called Red Riding Hood.

One day, about 1956, Little Red Riding Hood loaded her basket with goodies—like forests, and minerals, and oil, and great water resources—and set off through the woods to her grandmother's.

But on the way a Wolf spied her, and licked his lips hungrily.

The Wolf (whose real name was Wenner-Green, but that isn't quite as nice a name as Wolf) stopped Little Red Riding Hood and asked where she was going.

"I'm going to my grandmother's with this lovely basket of goodies," she said.

"The Wolf let her pass.

"Aha," he said to himself. "I will have those goodies, and Little Red Riding Hood, too. And I will build mills, and a railway and the biggest power dam in the world. I will make millions of dollars and give it all away to the poor people."

(He was really a very philanthropic Wolf, you see.)

So he took a short cut to grandmother's; and got there before the little girl.

He locked poor grandmother up in a closet, dressed up in her nightgown and jumped up to bed.

And when Little Red Riding Hood came, she said: "Oh, Grandmother, what big eyes you have."

"All the better to see you with," replied the Wolf, because he had a great vision of all the things he would do.

"Oh, Grandmother, what big ears you have," said the little girl.

"All the better to hear you with," said Wolf, because he wanted to grant all the wishes of the people.

"Oh, Grandmother, what big teeth you have."

"All the better to eat you up with," snarled the Wolf, and he jumped out of bed and chased Little Red Riding Hood all around the room.

But fortunately a Brave Woodsman was nearby and he heard her cries for help.

He rushed in and rescued her by taking over the Peace River power project and the B.C. Electric. And he let grandmother out of the closet (who was really Dr. Gordon Shrum, and all the time he had been writing the B.C. Energy Report).

"Get out there and do an honest day's work and build that railway anyway," said the Woodsman.

(His name was really William Andrew Cecil Bennett, but Woodsman is much shorter.)

But the Wolf was lazy.

So he pleaded with the Woodsman to give him time and he would build the railway somehow.

And the Woodsman said alright, he could have just a little longer, because he was really very kind-hearted, and he even went and chopped down a tree for the railway.

And the Wolf went to the press, to show he wasn't bluffing and told them "I'll build that railway."

But nobody really believed him.

Because this is just a fairy story, and nobody believes them.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Victoria Independent Order of Foresters recently turned over a cheque for $1,000 to Greater Victoria Association for Retarded Children.

The money, raised in a bingo game, will be used to extend the association's services.

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Flamingo Room of the B.C. Electric Building.

Speaker will be P. W. Robertson, control engineer, B.C. Power Commission.

A youngster hit by a car at Pandora and Douglas Friday received little more than bruises.

Four-year-old Ian Simpson, of 3521 Shelbourne, apparently stepped into a crosswalk in the path of the car.

Driver Herbert Newhouse, 607 Patrick, took the boy to Royal Jubilee Hospital where he was given a check-up.

Victoria Art Gallery, 1040 Moss, will hold its monthly picture-loan viewing Monday from 7.30 to 8 p.m.

Contemporary paintings by Canadian artists Stephen Lowe and Alan Collier will be on view. The public is invited but only art gallery members can rent pictures.

Almost 200 young cadets will be guests of the ship's company of the amphibious assault ship, USS Iwo Jima, on Sunday morning.

Members of the Rainbow Royal Canadian sea cadet corps and Admiral Rayner Navy League cadet corps and Navy League wrenettes will attend church services aboard ship. Roman Catholic mass is at 8.30 a.m. and Protestant service at 10.30 a.m. Tour of the ship will follow.

A former Saanich councillor was treated for abrasions and bruises in St. Joseph's Hospital Friday after he slipped and fell at the intersection of Johnson and Douglas.

Tom Alexander, 79, of 3209 Shelbourne, was taken to hospital in the police ambulance.

The slasher is at work again.

Spencer's Dept. Store, 1420 Douglas, reported a second attack of slashed clothing in three weeks.

The first instance saw $65 worth of slacks slit in pieces. On Friday $250 worth of sports jackets and trousers were put to the knife.

The attack evidently took place Thursday evening but was only discovered Friday morning.

R. H. French was elected president of the Old Age Pensioners' Association at a recent meeting.

Mrs. Grace Sherwood was chosen first vice-president and Bert Ryall was picked second vice-president.

Other officers: Mr. G. White, secretary; Mr. A. A. Cownden, treasurer; Mr. and Mrs. J. Mitchell and Mrs. E. Aspinwall, sick visitors; and Mrs. M. Hawkins, pianist and social convener.

On page 2 today a new feature column makes its debut.

Entitled "Round-a-bout," it will appear three times weekly and will include a pot-pourri of items which do not ordinarily make the news columns.

Readers will make their own guesses as to the identity of Douglas Hillside, the by-line writer of the column.

FINAL BULLETINS

Another Soviet Test in Atmosphere

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union set off a nuclear explosion of several megatons early today, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said.

The AEC said the detonation, in the Novaya Zemlya area the U.S.S.R. has been using as a testing ground, took place in the atmosphere.

Thieves Get $50,000 Haul in Furs

MONTREAL (CP) — Four men tied up three employees and a postman, then made off with an estimated $50,000 in furs and cash from the midtown Silberman (Canada) Fur Company today.

The thieves backed a truck to a ramp and loaded trimmed and unfinished furs aboard. One man looted the company safe of an undetermined amount of cash.

Als Knock Over Ti-Cats in Finale

Ottawa 'Wins Field' by Beating Argos

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Ottawa Rough Riders led by quarterback Ron Lancaster, downed the Toronto Argonauts 35 to 23 today to capture second place and the home field for next week's Eastern Football Conference semifinal.

NOT CLEARED FOR MANOEUVRES

No 'Hawks' Those 'Angels'

The U.S. Navy's "Blue Angels" made an all-too-brief sortie over Victoria this morning.

Expected to perform two or three evolutions as part of a "hands across the border" gesture, they made a high-speed pass over the city, then vanished into the east.

Hundreds of cars crowded Beacon Hill Park waterfront, where sightseers were hoping for an exhibition similar to those put on by the RCAF Golden Hawks.

A telephone call to Whidbey Island, where the Angels are based for a giant U.S. Navy air show today and Sunday, revealed little but that the Angels cleared from the big air station 33 miles east of here, had been over the city at 11:29 a.m., and had since returned.

"SUCH A FIZZLE" An information officer apologized for the exhibition being "such a fizzle."

"An explanation may be that they only had time for what they did," he said. "They had firm commitments here, and it may be that they didn't have the time or the fuel to hunt around for the vantage point where they were expected to perform."

STARS OF TV

The Blue Angels fly the supersonic Grumman F11F-1 Tiger, and are well known here through their television appearances. Six aircraft take part in the manoeuvres.

Original plans called for them to perform over Victoria Friday afternoon at 2:30, but the flight was called off because of bad weather at Whidbey Island.

One of the Angels, Lt. Hank Gieviski, said the group did "all we were authorized to do over populated areas."

"We put on a show of red and blue water from our wing tanks and smoke from our exhausts in a pass over the city," he said. "We weren't cleared for manoeuvres, and also had to visit Seattle on the same trip."

He said there were six aircraft in the double-V formation which flew over the city.

AGAINST GERMANS

Resistance Fighter Faces Atrocity Charge

MUNICH (AP) — Police are holding a Yugoslav official suspected of complicity in the slaying of several German soldiers by Yugoslav anti-Nazi partisans in the Second World War.

It is the first time in West Germany that an Allied resistance fighter has been accused of war crimes against German soldiers.

Lazar Vracaric, 44, executive of a large state-owned plant in Zagreb, was arrested Thursday in a Munich hotel while on a business trip.

The Yugoslav consulate-general announced that sharp protest was lodged with the West German government through the Swedish Embassy in Bonn.

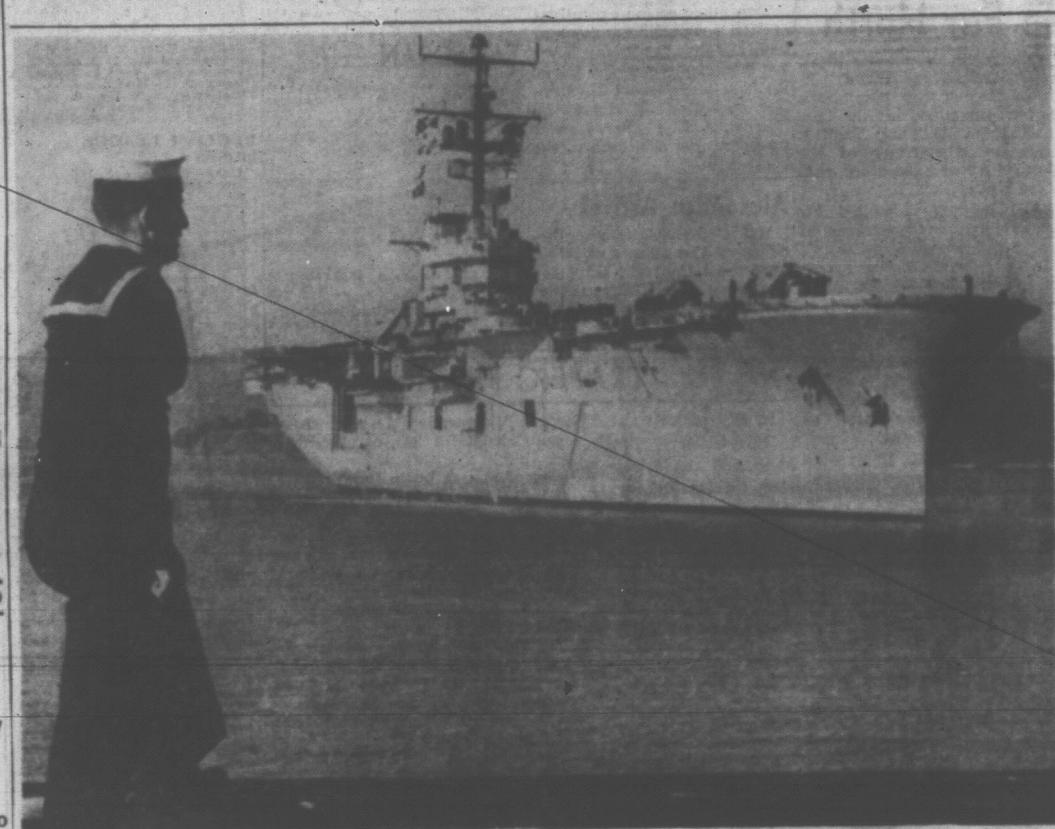

A consulate spokesman said the arrest was based on a warrant issued by Nazi occupation authorities in Yugoslavia in 1941.

Dr. Heinrich Gulden, chief prosecutor, said Vracaric and others are suspected of having "insidiously murdered" a group of German soldiers in an ambush in October of 1941. He said the warrant was made out some time ago.

The Yugoslav spokesman said the consulate-general's demand for Vracaric's release was declined by a Munich court because it felt it was not competent to issue a ruling.

BOMB BLASTS ROCK CAPITAL OF GHANA

BACKING BUT NOT A BIT BACKWARD

Because she wished to put her best side forward, the U.S. Navy's helicopter carrier USS Iwo Jima swung around ponderously in Esquimalt Harbor this morning, to dock at HMCS Naden with stern to beach. Her "best side" is starboard, where the ceremonial quarterdeck and proverbial welcome mat are located. Provincial and civic dignitaries will cross the quarterdeck today; everybody is welcome between 1 and 5 p.m. Sunday. Entrance is via main gate, HMCS Naden. (See story, page 15.)

FRANCE SETS ATOMIC BLAST

PARIS (UPI) — France may set off its fifth atomic test blast in the Sahara this weekend, the newspaper Paris-Press said today.

The newspaper said the test would be an underground shot, probably in the Hoggar Mountains. The fourth French test in April had been described by a French spokesman as the last of an above-ground series.

Dies Under Car

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Oliver Wendell Holmes, eight, was killed Friday night when he ran into the path of a car on the Tranquille Road near here, police said today.

K Threatens New Tests If U.S. Begins Again

(Times News Services)

MOSCOW — An Italian cabinet minister said today Premier Khrushchev told him the Soviet Union is ready to set off a new series of nuclear blasts if the United States resumes atmospheric testing.

Giuseppe Codacci Pisanelli, minister without portfolio and president of the Interparliamentary Union, talked to reporters before leaving for Rome en route to Washington to see President Kennedy. He saw Khrushchev in the Kremlin Friday.

Reuters news agency said usually reliable sources denied reports that Khrushchev had promised concessions on Berlin.

They called completely inaccurate reports that Khrushchev had said: "We must have negotiations and negotiations mean not only to receive concessions but to make concessions."

In fact, they said, Codacci Pisanelli used the phrase to Khrushchev. The Soviet premier merely agreed to this as a principle of negotiations generally, the sources declared.

This was not regarded by Codacci Pisanelli or any diplomatic sources here as any indication that Khrushchev was committing himself to making specific concessions on Berlin.

Ready for Vote

RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — The Algerian rebels are ready to accept a self-determination vote as a means of bringing about Algerian independence, rebel vice-premier Belkacem Krim said today.

Police Blame 'Terrorists'

ACCRA (AP) — Bombs were exploded in Accra today — one damaging a statue of Ghanaian President Kwame Nkrumah — and police blamed "terrorists."

It was the first reported violent display against the Nkrumah regime. There were no reports of casualties.

One bomb damaged the big bronze statue of the president that stands in front of Parliament.

A second bomb exploded almost simultaneously, damaging a war memorial in nearby Black Star Square, where the Queen is to review a parade during her visit next week.

First indications were that the bombs were planted by political rivals of Nkrumah, who rules this prosperous Gold Coast African republic with a dictatorial hand.

Nkrumah has clamped 400 political opponents in jail and only this week his rubber-stamp parliament approved legislation creating special court with power to order death sentences for political offenses.

Unconfirmed reports said two bombs also were planted in Christianborg Castle where the Queen will stay during her 11-day visit. Police said they knew nothing about this.

Trade Pact With Russia

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia and Ghana began talks Friday on the conclusion of a long-term trade agreement and on the expansion of economic and technical co-operation, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Test Story Aimed Behind Iron Curtain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Voice of America will use as many as 52 radio transmitters Sunday in a saturation campaign designed to beam a report on Soviet nuclear testing behind the Iron Curtain.

Programs keyed to the theme, "Have you been told?" will be broadcast in Latvian, Estonian, Lithuanian, Armenian, Georgian and Ukrainian as well as Russian and English.

KATANGA

Mobutu Suffers Setback

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — A Congolese government spokesman said today Gen. Joseph Mobutu's troops suffered a heavy defeat at the Katanga stronghold of Kaniama Friday and his invasion column is withdrawing toward the Kasai frontier.

Premier Cyrille Adoula's press secretary said Mobutu's advancing troops suffered "heavy casualties" in the action and would await reinforcements from the central government province of Kasai. The spokesman said the important Katanga town had been heavily reinforced by the army of President Moise Tshombe, including "many Europeans."

Kaniama, about 40 miles inside Katanga, is a principal base for the small bombing planes of the Katanga air force which were reported to have been attacking United Nations and Congolese army positions in Kasai.

No other details of the fighting were available here.

Mobutu announced Thursday that his troops had advanced triumphantly up to 35 miles into Katanga.

N.Y. City Operates Struck Milk Plant

NEW YORK (AP) — The city took over operation of a struck milk plant today to supply hospitals, schools, and other institutions during a Teamsters union strike that has paralyzed the normal flow of milk into New York City and Long Island.

HAPPY BRITONS ENGROSSSED IN GUESSING GAME

What Will They Name Him—Tony Jr., Albert, Ludwig?

By MARGARET SAVILLE

LONDON (UPI) — Britons indulged in a national guessing game today trying to pick a given name for the newest heir to the throne, tiny Viscount Lintley of Nyman.

As the apple of the nation's eye slept in his blue-trimmed crib sheltered for a time against a world of clamor and adulation, Britons "vet the baby's head"—traditional term for the toast drunk to the newborn child.

Clarence House, where the baby was born, was banked with flowers. In the room of the baby's mother, Princess Margaret, were three bouquets of roses from his father, Lord Snowdon, the former Antony Armstrong-Jones.

Doctors today pronounced mother and child in excellent condition.

Margaret is reported eager to be back on her feet and in her usual form in time for London's pre-Christmas "little season," always one of the gayest and most informal social times of the year in London.

The baby inherited one of his father's titles at birth but he also will get a given name or names.

The Daily Sketch reached far back into the Armstrong-Jones family tree and came up with the name of Ludwig. The Daily Herald added up the favorite royal names of Queen Victoria's sons and grandsons and predicted the boy would be named Albert.

Tourists interviewed outside Clarence House favored George, after Margaret's late father, King George VI. Others thought it might be Antony. Tony himself led the toasts

Friday by gathering three of the four doctors who attended the birth and drinking a glass of champagne with them.

Crowds of sightseers trickled past Clarence House far into the night, peering at the light from Princess Margaret's bedroom.

For a time the little Jones boy will enjoy privacy but eventually the public spotlight will bathe him as it has the three children of Queen Elizabeth.

One newspaper, the Daily Mirror, consulted an astrologer who decided that the new heir to the throne—he stands fifth in line—"is born to be a leader with character not easily overawed. At school he will be no shining light. In manhood he will be tall, slim with penetrating eyes."

The Daily Express relied on an old saw and said that "Friday's child will be loving and giving."

Space Story Doubtful

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration discounted today a report that the Soviet Union had launched and lost a space ship with three men aboard last month. (See story page 3.)
